NOTE ON SOURCES

The documents in this collection are from Record Group 165 Records of the War Department, General and Special Staffs, Military Intelligence Division Records, G-2 Regional File "Russia" and Record Group 319 Records of the Army Staff, Records of the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, Intelligence. These documents can be found at the National Archives and Records Administration, Washington Federal Records Center, Suitland, Maryland.

EDITORIAL NOTE

University Publications of America (UPA) has microfilmed these files in their entirety. Only duplicate copies of documents, documents that are completely illegible, and copywritten material have been excluded from this micropublication.

INTRODUCTION

Record Group 165

The Regional File which comprises Reels 1–19 was a documentary working file established by and maintained for the Military Intelligence Division (MID) of the War Department. Included in this file are notes, memos, letters, cables, and reports from numerous sources, which were used by MID to prepare reports and estimates. MID's reports and estimates were then added to the file. A researcher will find both the raw intelligence and the finished analysis of that intelligence in this file. The Regional File was established in the summer of 1940 and discontinued in June 1944.

Organization of the Regional File

Material in the Regional File is arranged by country. All documentation for a country is then arranged by the War Department's Index Guide for Military Information, Appendix B to Standing Instructions to Military Attachés (M.I.D.—SR 30-35). The introduction to the Index Guide is reproduced below; it should be noted that paragraph 3 states that the Index Guide is not a filing system. Nevertheless the Index Guide numbering system was used as a filing system for the Regional File. Appendix B to M.I.D.—SR 30-35, Index Guide for Military Information, was published in June 1940, and was in effect until June 1944.

WAR DEPARTMENT
Office of the Chief of Staff
Washington

June 1, 1940.

INDEX GUIDE FOR MILITARY INFORMATION

1. This revision of the Index Guide is an integral part (Appendix "B") of Standing Instructions to Military Attachés (SIMA).

2. The Index Guide is a classified arrangement of the information necessary to the Military Intelligence Division in acquiring and maintaining material from which Digests of Military Information derive, and from which the combat, economic, and political estimates can be kept current.

3. The Index Guide is not, and should not be regarded as, a filing system. It is, rather the military attaché's broadest and most permanent directive. To this end, in this revision, the outline material under each number has been carefully studied and redrawn, with, as its primary objectives, the focussing of the attention of the observer on specific problems, and the removal of duplications in the material requested. A secondary, though important, factor in the revision of the material, and especially in the arrangement of underlined subheads under a single index guide number, has been the problem of prompt and convenient dissemination to the several War Department agencies. Only moderate weight has been given to the consideration of convenience in filing, although it is evident that the ability to locate quickly the material on a particular subject must be based on a uniform system of recording it.

4. Since the Index Guide is designed to apply to all countries, its range is extremely broad. It is not expected that all of the topics listed will be covered in the information collected relative to any one country. It is fully realized that even the strictly military portions of the Index Guide will not exactly fit any one country. Since no two important military systems are exactly alike, any method of classification perfectly adapted to one foreign army would be as difficult of application to another as would be that of the United States. Consequently the American military thought has been made the basis.

It is likewise realized that the entire orientation of the military attaché's efforts will vary with the country. Obviously, in the case of countries with highly developed and well equipped military forces, our primary interest will lie in those military forces, and in the technical military lessons to be derived therefrom. When such countries are at war, the trends developed in strategic doctrine, tactics, organization and materiel assume still greater importance.

On the other hand, in such cases as those of the American Republics, the absence of large and well equipped military forces naturally operates to reduce the amount of detailed technical military information required concerning them. The possibility, however, of military cooperation in those areas necessitates the maintenance of up to date information on which precise plans can be based. Effort should be concentrated on the information that would be required by all members of the staff of the commander of an expeditionary force operating in the areas lying within this hemisphere. Furthermore, information on such countries is not nearly so readily obtainable from outside sources as in the case of better known and more highly developed nations, and in consequence the economic and sociological sections of their Digests are of relatively greater importance.

However, even in the cases of highly developed countries, where our primary sources of economic information are the Department of Commerce agencies, and of political information the State Department, it should be noted that in many numbers of the economic and political sections of the Index Guide are items developed essentially from the military standpoint, as, for example, the delineation of the vital areas of the country under 4000, and of their physical features under 1180, the request for information of vital and key points in industries, communications and utility systems, etc. Such sections should receive due attention from all military attachés.

Listed below are the ten major subject classifications arranged by the index guide number.

1000	Geography
2000	Population and Social Conditions
3000	Political
4000	Economic
5000	Finance
5900	National Defense
6000	Army
7000	Navy
8000	Air-Civil and (Non-Military) Governmental
9000	Air-Military

Each primary classification was then broken down into more specific subject classifications. In addition, a general or miscellaneous segment of reports was maintained either at the beginning or the end of each country file.

Record Group 319

The Cable Files which comprise Reels 20–22 are a complete set of cables between the Military Attaché, Moscow (and later the U.S. Military Mission to Moscow), and the War Department. These cables, which date from 1941 through 1944, are a valuable source of information. They were produced by one of the few official U.S. intelligence-gathering organizations inside the Soviet Union. Though some of the information from these cables will be found in the Regional File, UPA believes that the inclusion of the complete unabridged set will expand the research value of the publication.

REEL INDEX

The frame number on the far left side of the page identifies where a specific item begins on the microfilm. The number following the frame number reflects the Index Guide Number, as assigned by the War Department. (See Introduction on page vii for a further explanation.) The user is provided with an explanation of the type of material found in each Index Guide category, as signified by the smaller type following each guide entry title.

Reel 1

Geography

0001	1000	Siberia—Geographic Conditions Affecting Strategy: Siberia The strategic importance of the geographic location of the country, from the standpoint of its effect upon the role of the country as a land, sea, and air power. The national frontiers, their physical characteristics and strategic role, including brief mention of related political considerations. The influence of other geographic factors upon the national political objectives. Note: This number is for broad strategic geographical material of the general nature required for the combat estimate. Details of military geography are reported under the 1100 block. While it is realized that for some countries mention will very properly have to be made of political and even economic questions, it should be remembered that such questions (particularly Foreign Relations under 3850) are covered in detail elsewhere.
0047	1000	USSR—Geographic Conditions Affecting Strategy: USSR
0147	1000	Geographic Conditions Affecting Strategy: Latvia
0157	1100	Military Geography: General The broad physical features of the country to show its general character (mountainous, alluvial, diversified), its important watersheds, habitability, and general character of the vegetation. The effect of physical features upon the country's air base network.
0173	1100	Military Geography: Siberia
0196	1120	Principal Mountain Ranges Their chief characteristics, and their strategic significance from the viewpoint of invasion and defense. Location of important passes. Principal routes of invasion, with brief discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of each.
0205	1140	Rivers Their location and relative strategic importance, with reasons, their navigability, and principal crossings. Seasonal floods or low water. Note: Details of bridges, power dams, and other manmade engineering features are reported under the number pertaining to the railroad or road system, or utility involved.

Frame # Index Guide #

- 0368 1170 Coasts and Adjacent Islands: Sakhalin
Their general character and location of principal harbors.
Location of suitable areas for hostile landings, developed generally as follows:
Landing Beaches—Description of beaches suitable, considering not only hydrography, but also means of defenders to oppose landing. Shown on map or chart.
Beach Front—Distance from ship anchorage. Depths of water. Description of bottom (sand, rocks, mud, etc.; if mud, nature thereof, how deep, and to what extent it would form an obstacle), distance from beach fully loaded whaleboats will ground at high tide, at low tide; same for fully loaded 50' motor launch. Particular notes as to reefs, shoals, and passages through them. Other submerged natural obstacles. Effects of tides and weather. Seasonal weather obstacles.
Beach Terrain—Describes points available to defenders to oppose landings. Frontage and depth of beach, descriptions of beach terrain with reference to available cover, and to points suitable for establishing support weapons. Nearest water supply. General description of terrain inland to depth of 15,000 yards, with special reference to areas affording artillery observation to both attackers and defenders.
Beach Facilities—Facilities available at beach for landing heavy supplies or for constructing same.
Supply Column—Facilities for maintenance of supply for troops advancing inland. Highway and trail network, railroads, shipping, navigable streams, etc. (see Note).
Location of suitable areas for air bases in support of hostile landings.
Note: The supply and other facilities called for above form part of a utility, communications, or other system covered in its entirety under another index guide number.
- 0419 1170 Coasts and Adjacent Islands: Kamchatka
0571 1190 Cities
Cities important from a military or political viewpoint, with reasons.
Note: Forward under this number all information relating to the city as a whole. Information dealing primarily with a particular industry or utility is reported under the number applicable thereto.
- 0677 1300 Climate
The general character of the climate.
The seasonal changes, temperature, prevailing winds, rainfall and their influence upon military operations of ground forces.
Same for operations of air forces. Indicates areas in which air field locations can best be made from standpoint of weather conditions. Estimates height of top of overcast, by seasons, during overcast periods resulting from general storm conditions. Ability of heavy aircraft to operate from other than surfaced runways by seasons.
Note: The national weather service is reported under 8210.

Population and Social Conditions

0095 2000 Population and Social Conditions: General
 The historical origin of nation—by martial conquest or revolution, by political combination (voluntary or imposed), or by colonization and growth.
 Chief influences on national growth in population and on the development of the social system with figures showing total population at intervals over long periods of time.
 Mass repatriation of nationals.
 Mass expulsion of foreign nationals.
 Results of the above factors on the present characteristics of the population, its sociological order and standards.
 Racial composition in round numbers, or percentages of total population represented by each element without regard to citizenship.
Note: This number is intended to cover population from the historical, long-range standpoint, with just enough on general racial composition to complete the general picture. Detailed statistics on population are reported under 2010, and details of ethnic, social, and immigrant groups and minorities are reported under 2020.

0096 2000 Population and Social Conditions: Baltic

0108 2000 Population and Social Conditions: Lithuania

0109 2010 Population and Vital Statistics: General
 Forward all readily available population and vital statistics. Unless the following minimum requirements are included therein, supplemented by:
 Statistics in tabular form of total population for country as a whole, for each next largest political subdivision, for each colony and protectorate, and for the cities reported under 1190 as being important from a military or political viewpoint.
 Statistics for country as a whole showing number of males and females, number of males of military age, number of residents of foreign extraction by country of origin and subdivided into citizens and aliens.
 Totals for important occupations.
 Average density of population.
 Forward outline map showing density of population, or most thickly populated areas.

0162 2010 Population and Vital Statistics: German-Occupied Russia

0165 2010 Population and Vital Statistics: Baltic

0170 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Caucasus
 Discusses the important ethnic and social groups and minorities, including those resulting from immigration. Includes statements on relative importance, availability and aptitude for military service, and the degree of loyalty expected to them. Shows location of important groups on outline maps, when practicable.
Note: The political treatment of all such groups is reported under 3500.

0181 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Cossacks

0183 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Volga Germans

0184 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Jews

0189 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Baltic

0192 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: USSR

0219 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Ukraine

0259 2020 Ethnic and Social Groups and Minorities: Ukraine-Nationalists

Political Affairs

- 0114 3000 Government: General
Theory.
 Historical sketch of development of present (theoretical) form.
 Theoretical form and exercise of governmental power. Lists the coordinate branches of government and shows their inter-relation. Includes chart. (Only very general information is desired under this topic. The more detailed information concerning the executive, legislative, and judicial branches is reported under 3100, 3200, and 3300, respectively.)
 General suitability of theoretical form from standpoint of national characteristics.
Practice (where different from theory).
 Historical sketch of development of departure from theoretical form.
 Practical form and exercise of governmental power. Discusses broadly the differences between the practical and the theoretical. (Only very general information is desired under this topic. More detailed information on the extralegal or otherwise extraordinary powers being exercised by the chief executive or sovereign is discussed in 3110; by the premier, cabinet, and counsellors in 3115.)
 General suitability of practical form from standpoint of national characteristics.
Note: The stability of government is reported under 3020.
- 0136 3020 Government: Stability—Communism
 0230 3020 Government: Stability—General
 Factors affecting either form or administration or both:
Traditional aspects. Summarizes historical facts including frequency of revolutions. Trends toward restoration of (former) monarchy.
Revolutionary movements. Causes, aims, leaders, activities. Strength of combatants, and outcome of actual revolutionary efforts to overthrow the existing government.
Socialism, communism, radicalism, and reactionism. The degree to which these movements exist and the tendencies of their growth. Names of organizations, strength, leaders, aims, international affiliations, and activities.
Other collective movements (fascism, falangism, etc.). Attitude of the government toward and influence on government policies.
Effect on stability of government of the ethnic, social, and immigrant groups and minorities present in the country. (For discussion of the groups see 2020).
Effect on stability of government of other political or economic factors.
Collective effect of the foregoing factors on the prospective stability of the present form of government.
Collective effect of the foregoing factors on the trend (i.e., toward Right or Left) of the present administration, and on its prospective stability, particularly if confronted with the task of waging war.
Note: If the present administration is regarded as a political party, its strength and solidarity are discussed under 3700.
- 0421 3020 Government: Stability—Vlassov, A.A.
 0497 3400 Local Governments: Baltic
Political subdivisions (excluding colonies [3030]). Brief explanation of the subdivision of the country for political control by states or provinces.
Relationship to central government. Legal aspects and actual practices, both traditional and current. Controversies and accord or disagreement with central government on important national questions. Loyalty to central government, particularly in event of war. Discusses separately for individual states or provinces, when important.
Outline of organization of local governments. Branches of government, functions, powers, and their interrelationship. Includes chart. Mentions particularly legislative power and tendency toward surrender of legal, or abrogation of extralegal, functions.
State (or provincial) executives. Constitutional or otherwise prescribed powers. Broad tendency toward surrender or abrogation of powers.

- 0804 4110 Mining: Coal and Coke
Data as to coal (separately for bituminous, anthracite, and lignite coal) covering the following:
Estimate of total resources.
Number and location of important undeveloped fields (on map). Important exploratory work.
Number and location of producing fields (on map).
Annual production, consumption, export, and import.
Total annual exports and imports according to countries of destination and origin.
Ownership and control of mines and equipment, according to nationalities.
Maximum capacity and ability to expand in wartime. Restrictions or rationing. Conclusions as to wartime sufficiency.
- 0828 4115 Mining: Petroleum
Crude Petroleum.
Governmental policy as to development and production of crude petroleum.
Domestic fields.
Location and extent of producing and undeveloped fields (on map).
Extent of ownership and operation by government, nationals, and foreigners.
Total estimated resources of domestic fields.
Foreign fields.
Location, extent, and ownership in foreign fields by government and nationals.
Extent of investments in foreign fields.
Estimated resources of foreign holdings.
Statistics showing:
Total annual production by fields—domestic and foreign.
Total annual consumption.
Total annual exports and imports according to countries of destination and origin.
Total storage capacity, government and commercial.
Location of main storage facilities on map.
Total reserve supplies on hand—governmental and commercial.
Important exploratory and development work.
Petroleum Products.
Location of principal refineries and pipelines (on map).
Indicates the key installations whose interruption would cause material decrease in production or delivery. Vulnerability, landmarks, etc., with maps, sketches, or photographs.
Annual statistics on (separately) high-octane gasoline, ordinary gasoline, and lubricants, showing: production, consumption, exports, and imports according to countries of destination and origin, and reserves.
Total storage capacity.
Petroleum Substitutes.
Development of substitutes, showing:
Processes used, results, by-products, and resources available, separately for:
Substitutes for crude oil.
Substitutes for refined products.
Analysis of Petroleum Sufficiency.
Analysis of all strategic factors having to do with supply and requirements of petroleum and petroleum products, with a conclusion as to the dependence or independence of the country. Includes restrictions or rationing and their effect on sufficiency.

0065 4120 Mining: Metals and Metallic Minerals
Metals and Metallic Minerals. (Gold, iron and steel, manganese, platinum, copper, tin, lead, mercury, zinc, aluminum, antimony, tungsten, chromium, nickel, molybdenum, radium, silver, titanium, vanadium, zirconium, beryllium.)
General Statistics. General (combined) statistics on annual imports, exports, production, consumption, etc.
Individual Data. For each metal (separately):
Location and estimated resources of principal ore bodies.
Location, ownership, and average annual production of most important mines.
Location, capacity, and ownership of smelters. Includes map.
Significant influences affecting production and future prospects. Important exploratory work. Improvement in equipment and methods.
Statistics on total production, consumption, imports, and exports by countries of origin and destination, and reserves.
Brief analysis of all strategic factors having to do with supply and need of the metal in question, with conclusion as to dependence or independence of the country in time of war with respect to it.
- 0326 4130 Mining: Non-Metallic Minerals
Non-Metallic Minerals. (Raw material. Nitrates, sulphur and pyrites, potash salt deposits, magnesite, fluorite and cryolite, mica, asbestos.)
General Statistics. As outlined in 4120.
Individual Data. As outlined in 4120.
Note: The production of synthetic nitrates and potash is reported under 4320. The effect of such production appears in the brief analysis of their sufficiency under this number.
- 0351 4200 Agriculture: General
Importance of the industry. Percent of population employed.
Ratio of arable land to total area of country. Percent of arable land under cultivation.
Dependence on irrigation.
Location of principal agricultural areas and chief products of each. Includes map.
Location and capacity of principal irrigation systems, areas served. Includes map.
Government policies affecting, including general agrarian laws, particularly those pertaining to ownership and distribution. Assistance to industry in the form of subsidies, export bounties, or technical facilities made available. Governmentally directed or inspired mass settlements, particularly when related to defense or frontiers.

- 0559 4530 Transportation: Railway Systems and Lines
For each system or line:
Latest map.
Data showing the following:
Motive power used—steam, electric, and motor.
Road bed, gauge, and type of rails.
Number of tracks on all lines.
Important bridges, tunnels, and ferries.
State of repair and maintenance.
Yards and terminals, showing sidings and capacity.
Repair facilities for locomotives and rolling stock.
Kind of fuel, sources of supply, and storage facilities.
Vital points, vulnerability, landmarks, etc., with maps, sketches, or photographs.
New construction and extension. Important surveys contemplated or under way. Location, character, and importance. Financing and construction progress. Includes map.
- 0575 4540 Transportation: Railway Operation and Equipment
Trained personnel. Numbers and adequacy.
Amounts, kinds, condition, and adequacy of all types of rolling stock (by gauge if important).
Adequacy of repair facilities in general.
Troop carrying capacity of (a single) passenger and freight car.
Normal and maximum volume of traffic and effect of seasonal changes.
Location of centers at which rolling stock seasonally accumulate.
Methods of traffic control in use and a statement as to their efficiency.
- 0591 4700 Water Transportation: General
Governmental subsidy or interest in support, maintenance, and development of merchant marine, shipyards and drydocks, ports and harbors, and inland water transportation—separate and concise summary for each from the viewpoint of national defense.
Natural tendency of population toward maritime pursuits, percentage engaged, and sufficiency of trained personnel to meet the demands of war.
- 0615 4710 Water Transportation: Merchant Marine
Foreign ownership and operation under registry and flag of country, with number of ships and total tonnage.
National merchant marine with separate statistics as to each operating company showing the following:
Organization, ownership, and control.
Type of each vessel with speed, fuel, cruising radius, gross tonnage, suitability for military use (troop, animal, or cargo), estimated time of conversion from normal to military use, and estimated military capacity (troop, animal, or cargo). Note refrigeration capacity, when important, as R1 if from 4,000 to 10,000 cubic feet, as R2 if from 10,000 to 20,000, as R3 if from 20,000 to 30,000, as R4 if from 30,000 to 50,000 and as R5 if over 50,000.
Total tonnage in principal vessels. States the percent of this tonnage that represents merchant ships equipped with provision for receiving armament, with type of provision.
Total national tonnage, by category, i.e., steam, motor, sailing, and lighter.
Total national income from shipping.
Total availability or domestic merchant marine in home waters in the event of a declaration of war.

Frame # Index Guide #

- Losses—tabulates losses in war showing cause of loss where determinable. (For periods of unusual and continuing losses, pending revision of permanent figures.)
 Effect upon the size and activity of the merchant marine resulting from existing embargoes, sanctions, and neutrality measures reported in 3850, or of the control measures reported under 4020.
- 0684 4720 Water Transportation: Commercial Shipyards
 Statistics of each shipyard (in order of importance) showing:
 Strategic location.
 Capacity for repair.
 Shipbuilding capacity, its annual output in number, types, and tonnage of ships.
 Statistics on each drydock showing location, capacity, and dimensions.
 Ability to increase the capacity of shipyards and drydocks to meet the demands of war.
- 0686 4730 Water Transportation: Ports and Harbors
 Map showing location of principal ports and harbors.
 For each:
 Map or hydrographic chart.
 Brief description of city or town adjacent.
 Relation to land lines of transportation and communication.
 General character of entrance channels.
 Security from storms.
 Area and depth of anchorage.
 Availability of lighterage and necessity for use.
 Piers and wharves:
 Depth of water; tidal variation.
 Dimensions and height above water.
 Loading and unloading facilities.
 Railway trackage; gauge and connection with main lines.
 Storage facilities (including dimensions).
 Total estimated tonnage capacity.
 Total storage capacity.
 Fuel supplies, with storage capacity for same and normal amount on hand.
 Port and harbor development.
 Refrigerating facilities.
- 0751 4750 Water Transportation: Trade Routes
 Routes operated by domestic shipping companies.
 Locates principal trade routes, foreign and coastwise, showing principal ports of call (on map).
 Statistics on each trade route showing separately for foreign and domestic merchant marine:
 Number of vessels employed (by company).
 Total tonnage employed by each company.
 Total tonnage employed in the trade route.
 Steamship service to country by foreign lines.
 Lists of foreign companies offering services, to the country, showing nationality, ports and frequency of call, number of vessels employed, passenger and freight.
 Relative importance of the companies listed, competition among them, and government interest manifested in favoring companies of a particular nationality.
 Improvements in service.

Note: Military aviation is reported under the 9000 block.

Note: For clarity and convenience in the classification of information, especially in matters of organization, personnel, training, and equipment, a terminal number has been assigned to each of the various staffs, combatant arms, and services, which is affixed to the appropriate paragraph number. In rendering reports, treats each subdivision of the Army separately under its appropriate number. Extra numbers have been allotted to permit the military attaché to report upon services or organizations that have no counterpart in our services.

Army: General

Concise summary of history and traditions, including the effect of foreign military doctrines.

Mission of the Army as an instrument for the furtherance of national policy. Briefly mentions non-military functions. (Details of such functions reported under proper number elsewhere.)

National defense policy pertaining to the Army. The attitude of the people toward maintenance of an adequate Army Establishment.

General statement describing the Army Establishment and its efficiency as a whole. Discusses briefly the composition, degree of subservience to the central government, state of training and equipment, and relative value of (separately):

Active Army (mentioning its various categories, i.e., home, colonial, native, etc.).

Organized Reserves—similarly classified.

Organized Militia—similarly classified.

Quasi-Military Organizations. (Organizations that reasonably may be considered to form a potential military reserve, as differentiated from those reported as militarized societies under 6040.)

Basic laws affecting Army Establishment.

Note: The discussion of the Army Establishment called for here is of a brief and summary nature. The organizational composition of the Army as a whole is further discussed in 6100, and the territorial distribution in 6115 or 6905. Tabulated strength figures for all components are reported under 6010. Quasi-military organizations are further discussed under 6020.

Tabulated statistics on total accumulated losses, showing type of vessel, tonnage, and cause of loss, where determinable.

Military Aviation

Note 1: This section of the Index Guide is used for forwarding information on all aviation used for military purposes, including that attached to, or part of the Navy.

For countries in which naval aviation is part of the Air Force, Military Attachés cover naval aviation in such detail as is necessary to complete the data on the entire Air Force.

For countries in which naval aviation is not a part of the Air Force, Military Attachés similarly cover naval aviation unless there is a U.S. Naval Attaché accredited to the country, in which case they are relieved from responsibility for forwarding information on the subject, except:

The general information required under 9000.

Information required by the Annual Aviation Intelligence Report.

Information having possible effect on army operations, or on the design of U.S. Army material and equipment.

Note 2: In forwarding information under the 9000 block add -Army or -Navy to the title for material pertaining to aviation that is an integral part of the Army or Navy, and (Army) and (Navy) to the title for material pertaining to aviation assigned or allotted to (but not an integral part of) the Army or Navy.

Note 3: The following phases of civil aviation are reported under the 9000 block, adding -Civil to the title.

Airports—9185; Production of Aviation Equipment—9505; and Research and Development—9545.

Note 4: While numbers are provided in this section for an almost complete and parallel coverage of the subjects outlined in the Army (6000) block, it is not intended that information forwarded under the block be duplicated here. Whenever applicable, as, for example, in the case of such subjects as personnel, pay and allowances, mobilization, etc., covers the subject by a statement that the system or method is the same as for the Army, or by stating the differences that exist.

0735 9000

Military Aviation: General

Concise summary of history and traditions, including the effect of foreign doctrines.

Mission of military aviation and its components in the furtherance of national policy.

National policy pertaining to military aviation. The attitude of the people toward maintenance of an adequate aviation establishment.

General description of the structure of the military aviation establishment and its efficiency as a whole. Shows clearly the relationship of the separate Air Force (where existing), aviation assigned or allotted to, or integrally part of, the Army, and aviation assigned or allotted to, or integrally part of, the Navy. Discusses briefly the composition, degree of subservience to the central government, state of training and equipment, and relative value of (separately) such of the following as apply to the country:

- Air Force, Active, Reserve, and Militia.
- Army Aviation, Active, Reserve, and Militia.
- Naval Aviation, Active, Reserve, and Militia.
- Quasi-Military (Aviation) Organizations.

Basic laws affecting, and changing therein.

Note: While the interrelationship of the various components are clearly set forth here, the discussion of each component is of a brief and summary nature. Tabulated strength figures for personnel and airplanes are reported under 9010 and 9015. Details of quasi-aviation organizations are further discussed under 9020, and of the organizational composition of the Air Force throughout the 9100 block. The territorial distribution is reported under 9115 and 9905.

0272 9100

Organization: Military Air Ministry

Organization, functions, and relationship of as many of the following as apply:

Military Air Ministry, controlling department for Army aviation, controlling department for Naval aviation, and, for countries in which there is no separate Air Force nor Air Ministry, the relationship of the controlling departments to the War and Navy ministries.

0279 9115

Organization: Territorial Organization and Distribution

Home.

Organization of home country into territorial air regions and their major subdivisions.

Shows on map the territorial organization and the principal military air stations.

General information of administrative and command echelons.

Tabulated list showing all organizations included within each region, separately for Active and Reserve Forces (including Militia), with total strength in squadrons, by types (pursuit, bombardment, etc.).

Station lists when available.

Overseas.

General information of administrative and command echelons, separately for each command. Shows on map the territory included within each overseas air district, and its principal subdivisions and military air stations.

Tabulated list showing all organizations included within each region, separately for Active and Reserve Forces (including Militia), with total strength in squadrons, by types (pursuit, bombardment, etc.).

Station lists when available.

Note: When either the home country or an overseas possession becomes essentially a theater of operations, reports suspended under this number (for the area or areas affected) and report under 9905.

0283 9120

Organization: Tactical Commands

Separate for peace and war, shows the outline organization of the large tactical command (or commands) in the echelon immediately below the Air Ministry, such as Air Fleet, Air Army, G.H.Q. Air Force. (Shows in terms of the next lower units, but gives total strength in personnel and planes. Lists all special and administrative units of the command (or commands) but does not go into details of their organization, which are reported elsewhere under appropriate numbers.)

Note: Comparable Naval commands under this number.

0287 9130

Organization: Intermediate Tactical Organizations

Separate for peace and war, shows the outline organization of the units intermediate between the one or ones reported under 9120 and squadrons (reported under 9170). (Shows each in terms of the next lower units, but gives total strength in personnel and planes. Lists all special and administrative units of the commands, but does not go into details of their organization, which are reported under 9140 if non-service, and under 9160 if service.)

Note: Comparable Naval organizations under this number.

For planes. Location, type construction, and capacity.
For personnel. Barracks, hotels, or other housing, with location, type construction, and capacity.
Hospital. Type construction and capacity.
Communications.
Telegraph, telephone, radio.
Railway and motor.
Remarks.
Includes possibility of enlargement, area available for dispersal of airplanes, cover available for concealment, etc.
Note: In areas of possible strategic or tactical importance where there are either no landing fields or an insufficient number, reports potential landing fields, showing location, present condition, estimated amount of labor required to make available for military use, and other pertinent information, in a manner similar to that used in reporting emergency landing fields.

Frame # Index Guide #

Posts, Depots, Bombing Ranges (Having No Landing Field).

Except as noted below, briefly describes facilities at posts and stations having no landing field. Includes housing, training, and hospital facilities, with type of construction.

Note: Facilities of research and experimental stations are reported under 9545, or schools under 9740.

0763 9200

Personnel: General

General personnel matters, problems and measures applicable to both commissioned and enlisted personnel, and of such nature that they cannot, or should not, be broken down into any of the specific numbers of the 9200 block.

Compares the proficiency of the various categories of aviation personnel with similar personnel in the U.S. Army Air Corps under the following headings:

Piloting

Aerial navigation

Military maneuver and combat

Bombing and gunnery

Reconnaissance photography, artillery registration and direction, infantry contact, and similar missions.

0769 9210

Personnel: Comissioned

(See Note 4 preceding 9000.)

Active Force.

Appointment.

Promotion, average age, and service in grade.

Discharge and retirement.

Physical examination standards.

Policy governing duty with troops.

System of efficiency reports.

Policy of transfer between Army, Navy, and Air.

Use of officers from the Army and Navy as air observers.

General standards of general education, professional training, discipline, morale, courage, loyalty, initiative, leadership, health, and endurance. Concludes with brief general rating.

Reserves.

Appointment, promotion, discharge, and retirement.

General standards as compared with those of active force.

Organized Militia.

Same as for Reserves.

Note: Comparative standards of efficiency in piloting, navigation, etc., are reported collectively for all grades under 9200.

Note: Methods of training are reported under the 9700 block.

0770 9305

Loyalty: Health Maintenance

Specific "aviation medicine" measures for maintenance or improvement of health after entry into service. Includes results of research on the effect of flying on personnel.

Note: Physical standards for entry into service are covered under 9210 and 9240.

Note: General organization and operation of medical and dental services are reported under 9160.

(See Note 4 preceding 9000.)
The general state of morale in the Air Forces and the causes for its elevation or depression, including subversive activities.
The agencies used to develop and maintain morale and promote welfare, including post exchanges, canteens, etc. The extent to which they are financed by the government and by private funds.
The recreational facilities provided for the soldier.
Military athletics and competitions.
Leaves of absence, furloughs, passes.
Measures or policies adopted from time to time that have a tendency to raise or lower morale.
Note: This number is for the collective and general morale, and influences thereon. The state of morale of officers and men is reported under 9210, 9220, and 9230.
Note: Wartime morale of the civil population is reported under 5970.
- 0779 9500 Supply: General
Procurement.
Normal Peacetime System.
Centralized or decentralized.
Method of coordination of various agencies.
Brief outline of method.
Influence of politics.
Wartime System.
Changes from peacetime system, including special procurement measures in the theaters of operations.
Note: Sources of procurement are reported under 6505 and 6510.
Storage.
Normal Peacetime System.
System of storage of general supplies, armament, and equipment. General use of underground storage construction.
Classification, location, and function of each depot with reference to current supply of troops and to mobilization.
Normal reserve stocks maintained at each depot for current supply.
Wartime System.
Changes from peacetime system, including system of storage in theaters of operation.
Distribution and Issue.
Normal Peacetime System.
Brief outline.
Wartime System.
Details of supply system showing:
Classification of supplies for issue.
Organization and operation in the interior.
Organization and operation in the line of communications.
Organization and operation in the theater of operation.
Discusses advantages and disadvantages.
Evacuation by Air During Active Operations.
Methods and operation of evacuation of sick and wounded (for both air and non-air personnel) by air during active operations.

- 0787 9505 Supply: Domestic Production, Capacity, and Sources of Aviation Equipment
General.
Discussions of the rate of production of the domestic aviation industry as a whole (for both military and civil products), and of measures affecting production, (other than the peacetime planning for industrial mobilization of the industry reported under 9620).
Comparison of rate of production with estimated rate of availability of aviation personnel reported under 9600.
Production by Model.
Forwarded as part of the Annual Aviation Intelligence Report, is statistical information on current and projected production for each model of military plane.
Forwarded under this number is supplementary, interim, and fragmentary information.
Engine Production.
Forwarded, as part of the Annual Aviation Intelligence Report, is statistical information on current and projected production of aircraft engines adaptable to military use, classified as to whether service or training.
Forwarded under this number if supplementary, interim, and fragmentary information.
Production of Other Critical Items (Propellers, Armor, Armament, etc.). (See Note.)
Note: In the case of armament, if the article is designed primarily for air use, its production is reported under this number, if designed for general use by both air and ground forces, under 6505.
Privately Owned and Operated Plants.
For each plant, shows name, capitalization, directorate, location, articles of production, sources of war materials, noteworthy processes or methods, and current and estimated maximum production, by types (both military and civil). Military contracts on hand. Vital points, vulnerability, landmarks, etc., with maps and photographs.
Governmentally Owned and Operated Plants.
Same as for private plants.
Mixed Control Plants.
For plants whose ownership or control is shared by government and private capital, shows relationship and covered as above.
- 0875 9505 Supply: Domestic Production, Capacity, and Sources of Aviation Equipment—
Lend-Lease Airplanes
- 0893 9510 Supply: Imports and Exports of Aviation Equipment
Descriptions of equipment involved, country of origin or destination, noteworthy conditions of transaction or other pertinent information.
- 0937 9525 Supply: Fuel and Oil
Peacetime allowance.
Noteworthy methods of handling.
Grade or grades of aviation fuel and oil used.
Annual consumption of aviation fuel.
Extent to which synthetic fuels are used.
Note: The countries' reserves of oil and gasoline are reported under 4115.
- 0944 9535 Supply: Ammunition and Pyrotechnics
Specifications for ammunition, bombs, torpedoes, and mines, by caliber or type, with photographs or sketches.
Specifications for pyrotechnics, by type, with photographs or sketches.
Peacetime allowances.
Amounts carried by several echelons.
Research and development of new types.
Note: Classifies types as "standard" (meaning adopted) or "experimental."
Note: Omits specifications for any items covered under 6535.

- 0967 9540 Supply: Signal Communications
Installations operated by air troops for communication between headquarters.
Air-ground communications.
Plane to plane communications.
Codes and cyphers.
Note: Details of equipment are reported under 9570.
- 0970 9550 Supply: Armament and Equipment—General
A general statement on the uniformity and standardization of aviation armament and equipment showing quality, sufficiency, and maintenance.
Supply: Armament and Equipment—Organizational
Tables of organizational equipment.
Separately, for airplanes, engines, and other equipment (armor, armament, bomb racks, bomb sights, photographic equipment, oxygen equipment, gas spraying equipment, etc.,) summarizes such lessons as to general faults in existing equipment or lack of equipment, and such trends toward changes in equipment, as evidenced by the results of operations or exercises, as may be of value in affecting the future general design or similar equipment.
Each important article reports:
Remarks as to whether standard or experimental.
Description and specifications, with photographs or drawings.
Amount on hand.
Methods of marking for identification.
Note: Uses furnished forms for airplanes and engines.

Frame # Index Guide #

- General factors influencing the allotment and disposition of defensive forces.
Note: Correlates with material previously forwarded under 5960 (Air War Plans). See also 6900.
- 0300 9905 Air Operations: Movements and Distribution
Movements to and from Theaters of Operation.
Forces involved, with noteworthy features of methods employed.
Note: The transport of troops by air is reported under 9930.
Distribution by Theater (Separately by Theater).
General administrative and command organization of each air theater. Names of commanders and important staff officers.
A tabulation of the air organizations within the air theater, listing all air tactical organizations by type projected down to include the total number of squadrons, and other units not included in the foregoing, in such manner that a complete picture is presented. Show on map as much of the disposition of the major units listed in the foregoing as is practicable. Keeps current by reporting important changes.
- 0349 9910 Air Operations: Offensive, not in Direct Support of Land or Naval Forces
Note: An operation is not in direct support of land or naval forces unless it is directly involved in a tactical operation of land forces on the field of battle, or of naval forces in a naval engagement.
For each operation:
Forces utilized, including any units of Army or Navy attached to the Air Force. Command or direction, with names of commanders and important staff officers.
General objectives.
Operations.
To be arranged as best fits the operations. Where practicable, it is suggested that the developments be reported chronologically, by phase, and by large groupings, until the operations resolve themselves into separate actions or raids, which is separately covered, restating the forces utilized. In either event, the development of the actual operations covers:
Specific objectives.
Influence of weather and terrain.
Coordination of the air arms.
Employment of each arm (separately):
Bombardment. (Differentiate, when applicable, between light (or dive), medium, and heavy bombardment). Covers:
Noteworthy command and control measures.
Tactics and technique in attacks against defended and undefended objectives. Mentions altitude, direction, speed, maneuver, use of clouds for cover, methods of avoiding balloon or kite barrages, methods of illuminating objectives during night attacks, conditions under which horizontal, dive, and glide bombing were used.
Tactics and technique in attacks against naval and merchant vessels. Mentions size bombs used, and percentage of hits.
Losses, by cause, i.e., pursuit, anti-aircraft, fire of ground troops (other than AA), weather accidents, etc. See Note 2 below.
Average number of missions per crew, with flying hours.
Lessons, strategic, tactical, and technical. See Note 3 below.

Reconnaissance. (For reconnaissance over both land and water areas, other than by air units attached to divisions, corps, and armies) covers:
Noteworthy command and control measures.
Kinds of intelligence sought.
Channels of transmission of intelligence for pursuit or bombardment.
Tactics and techniques in both day and night missions.
Losses, by cause. See Note 2 below.
Average number of missions per crew, with flying hours.
Lessons, strategic, tactical, and technical. See Note 3 below.

Pursuit.

Noteworthy command and control measures.
Allocation of pursuit to protection of bombardment, of reconnaissance.
Tactics and technique.
Losses, by cause. See Note 2 below.
Average number of missions per crew, with flying hours.
Lessons, strategic, tactical, and technical. See Note 3 below.

Note 1: Does not go into details of subjects, such as equipment, organization, etc., definitely belonging to other Index Guide numbers. Covers them in separate reports under their proper number.

Note 2: The losses here are the losses in the particular operation reported upon. Periodic inclusive loss figures are reported under 9940 and 9945.

Note 3: While Index Guide numbers 9665 and 9675 have been provided primarily to record the strategic and tactical lessons, they begin to take definite form as the result of several or continued operations. Really noteworthy lessons deduced from a single operation are made on the basis of separate reports under those numbers. Similarly, really noteworthy technical lessons, from even a single operation, are reported under 9560 or 9570.

0363 9915

Air Operations: Offensive, in Direct Support of Land Forces

By Units Not Assigned Nor Attached to the Army.

Generally as outlined in 9910 and the notes thereunder. Where air units assigned or attached to army units also participate, shows coordination.

By Units Assigned or Attached to Army Units.

Noteworthy features of command and control, and of coordination with air units not assigned nor attached to army units. Relationships of air commanders to commanders of army units, and to commanders of (separate) Air Force commanders. Interrelationships of service and maintenance facilities.

For Army, Corps, and Division observation and liaison airplanes, covers:

Location of airdromes with respect to headquarters of units served.

Depth of penetrations.

Types and numbers of missions per crew, with flying hours.

Relative effectiveness.

Losses, by cause. See Note 2 following 9910.

Lessons, tactical and technical. See Note 3 following 9910.

0367 9925

Air Operations: Defensive

For each operation:

Air forces used in the operation, and any command or control methods differing from the general system reported under 9810.

Objective (or objectives) defended in the operation.

Employment and effectiveness of warning service.

Employment and effectiveness of pursuit. Covers:

- Size of units used by day and night.
Patrols and alerts.
Channels of intelligence (from ground or air observation). Method of guiding pursuit to air interception.
Coordination with anti-aircraft.
Tactics and technique of attacks against hostile bombers, both in formation and individual, and against hostile fighters.
Losses, by cause, with ratio of hostile bombardment of reconnaissance destroyed to own pursuit losses, by day and by night.
Lessons, tactical and technical.
Employment and effectiveness of anti-aircraft guns and searchlights.
Employment and effectiveness of balloon or kite barrages.
Note: See Notes following 9910.
Note: The general system for the employment of pursuit interceptor aviation in air defense is reported under 9810. This number is for actual operations.
- 0386 9930 Air Operations: Results and Effects of Actual Aerial Attacks
General.
General observations on results and effects of aerial attacks.
Detailed reports on a single phase of the subject, as, for example, the effect of high explosive on masonry construction, the effect of gas attacks on factory output, etc., when warranted by the information on hand.
Individual Aerial Attacks.
For each attack, or series of attacks, reports results and effects (both direct and indirect) on military objectives, including troops, installations, material, and supplies. Shows as much detail as possible in the comparative effects of bombs, cannon and machine gun fire, and chemicals.
Same for results and effects on civil utilities, installations and activities, including casualties.
Same for results and effects of attacks on merchant and naval vessels.
Note: Defensive air operations against these attacks are reported under 9925.
Note: When, as the result of actual attacks, changes are made in the general system of military air defense, or in the system of air defense of the civil population, such changes are reported under the appropriate numbers of the 9800 block.
Note: The effect of aerial attacks on the morale of the civil population is reflected in periodic reports under 5970.
- 0400 9945 Air Operations: Losses
Forwards periodic losses during period reported upon and total to date. For airplanes, shows cause of loss.
Reports by theater of operations when practicable.
Note: For all-inclusive loss figures.
- 0444 9960 Air Operations: Transport of Troops and Supplies by Air
Transport and Initial Employment of Parachute Troops.
Methods, numbers carried, and time required.
Employment (of the parachute troops) up to the time when their operations take on the status of, or merge with, operations of ground troops.
Transport and Initial Employment of Other Combat Troops.
Methods, numbers carried, and time required.
Employment (of the combat troops) up to the time when their operations take on the status of, or merge with, operations of ground troops.
Transport of Service Troops and Supplies.
Methods, numbers or amounts carried, and time required.
Note: Evacuation of casualties by air is reported under 9500.

SUBJECT INDEX

The following is a guide to the major subject categories in this collection. The number before the colon refers to the reel, and the number after the colon refers to the frame number at which a particular subject begins. Thus 3: 0934 directs the researcher to the subject that begins at Frame 0934 of Reel 3. By referring to the Reel Index that constitutes the initial section of this guide, the researchers can find the main entry for this subject.
