PROPERTY RIGHTS

This collection is presumed to be the exclusive property of the Harvard Law School and may be used for research purposes without specific permission from the school. Copyright on the microfilm edition of this collection and in the printed guide to the collection is registered in the name of the President and Fellows of Harvard College. Roll duplication of the whole or any part of this film is prohibited, but instead of transcription, enlarged photocopies of selected items contained on these rolls may be made to facilitate research. Brief quotations are authorized, but publication or reproduction in any form of major portions of these papers must have the written consent of the Harvard Law School. Inquiries may be directed to the Librarian, Harvard Law School, Cambridge, MA 02138.

The user is cautioned that literary property rights (common law rights) are not covered by this permission to use. These rights derive from the principle of common law that the writer of an unpublished letter or other manuscript has the sole right to publish the contents thereof, unless he affirmatively parts with the right. The right descends to his legal heirs regardless of the physical ownership of the manuscript itself. Although this right is generally considered to pass into the public domain after fifty years, it is the responsibility of an author or his publisher to secure the permission of the owner of literary property rights in unpublished writing.

THE ALBERT LÉVITT PAPERS

In 1968 the heirs of Albert Lévitte—teacher, ordained minister, lawyer, government official, judge, and author—presented to the Harvard Law School as a gift a sizeable group of Judge Lévitte's papers, reflecting mainly his interest and research in international law and international affairs.

Access to these papers is governed by the rules and regulations of the Harvard Law School Library in general, and its Manuscript Division in particular. Literary rights in the unpublished writings of Judge Lévitte in this collection and in other collections in the custody of the Harvard Law School Library have not been dedicated to the public.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The items in The Albert Lévit Papers span the years 1927–1937 and 1965–1968. A small amount of research items used by Judge Albert Lévit date back to the early 1920s and to the 1800s.

The collection includes correspondence, notes, memoranda, reports, minutes of meetings, bibliographies, legal and government documents, drafts, newspaper clippings, photos, an outline of an uncompleted manuscript, files of index cards, partial files of newspapers, pamphlets, copies of magazines, printed parliamentary debates, and books. The books are association copies, and most of them have either marginal annotations, marginal checkmarks, and/or slips marking special places of reference. All of the parliamentary debates are marked with both slips and check marks.

The papers cover two distinct periods of Judge Lévit's life. The first group covers his years teaching at the Brooklyn Law School of St. Lawrence University (roughly 1927–1937), his professional and political activities in Connecticut between 1930 and 1933, his service as a special assistant attorney general of the United States (1933–1935, 1936–1937), his tenure as a representative of the U.S. Department of Justice on a committee of advisors on the codification of nationality law of the United States (1933–1935), and as a judge of the U.S. District Court of the Virgin Islands (1935–1936). These papers contain his study of, and research materials in, international treaties, nationality and comparative law; his court papers; and some personal-professional miscellany.

The second group consists mainly of research material that Judge Lévit collected and received in connection with his study of the crisis in Rhodesia following its unilateral declaration of independence on 11 November 1965, and with his proposals for, and efforts on behalf of, a reconciliation between Rhodesia and the British Crown.

Among Judge Lévit's correspondents were Sir Hugh Beadle, chief justice, High Court of Rhodesia; Clifford Dupont, Officer Adminstrating the Government, Rhodesia; D. W. Lardner-Burke, minister of justice, Rhodesia; Oliver Sprague; Sir Robert Tredgold, Rhodesia; Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister, Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland; and Patrick Wall, M.P., House of Commons, Great Britain.

Judge Lévit's arrangement of his files, including series titles and folder headings, has been preserved throughout.
