

A black and white historical photograph showing a group of people and horses in a field, possibly a military or agricultural setting. The scene is set outdoors with trees and a structure in the background.

British Humanities Index

International scholarship across the humanities

ORIGINALLY PRODUCED BEGINNING IN 1916 by the Library Association in the United Kingdom, the British Humanities Index covers international scholarship across the humanities from 1962 to the present. It indexes almost 400 internationally respected humanities journals and weekly magazines published in the U.K. and other English speaking countries, as well as some selected articles from newspapers published in the U.K. Updated monthly, it includes more than 900,000 records in these wide-ranging areas:

Subjects include:

- Architecture
- Archaeology
- Art
- Antiques
- Cinema
- Current affairs
- Education
- Economics
- Environment
- Foreign affairs
- Gender studies
- History
- Language
- Law
- Linguistics
- Literature
- Music
- Painting
- Philosophy
- Poetry
- Political science
- Religion
- Theatre

Why the British Humanities Index?

- Originally produced beginning in 1916 by the Library Association in the United Kingdom, the British Humanities Index is updated monthly and covers international scholarship across the humanities from 1962 to the present.
- It indexes almost 400 internationally respected humanities journals and weekly magazines published in the U.K. and other English speaking countries, as well as some selected articles from newspapers published in the U.K.

To learn more or request a free trial, contact us at www.proquest.com/go/D9226.