Get the Scoop on Local and State History
Thirty-Three State Collections Now Available from ProQuest Historical Newspapers

Explore small-town reactions to global events. Access centuries of birth, death and marriage records.

Dig into the local and state news that’s critical for research, history and genealogy – much of it never reported in the national and international dailies.

ProQuest Historical Newspapers: U.S. State Collections now includes thirty-three new State Collections, each featuring some of the most important titles covering a specific state in the United States. Access these State Collections, many with titles going back over a hundred years, and give your users insight into everything from local government decisions to historic moments that may not have been reported anywhere else.

*ProQuest will continue to load titles into the State Collections until they are complete in early 2023.

ProQuest Historical Newspapers: U.S. State Collections – Travel Digitally Through History
You’ll get access to over 120 image-based digitized newspapers, with coverage beginning as far back as 1785. Patrons can browse each edition as it was printed – including articles, photos, advertisements, obituaries, editorial cartoons and so much more. The State Collections are also cross-searchable with other ProQuest content.

72% of researchers use news – making newspapers a critical resource for libraries to offer.

Alabama

The State Collection newspapers reveal a range of perspectives demonstrating the specific ways communities are impacted by national and global events, and cover local issues, people, events, and industries not found elsewhere. Unearth Alabama’s past through local and national news with Alabama’s state newspapers, including the Birmingham Post Herald and The Montgomery Advertiser. Readers will find coverage on issues such as state politics and legislation; school board meetings, zoning board meetings, and historical topics and events like the Marion Three Case, the Space Shuttle Challenger disaster, and more.

Note: Newspaper titles, including the ones listed here, undergo name changes throughout the years.

On bus boycotts/racial bus segregation (1955): The Montgomery bus boycott was a political protest against racial segregation on public transit in Montgomery, Alabama. The boycott began December 5, 1955, after Rosa Parks had been arrested for refusing to give up her seat to a white passenger.

On Supreme Court decision against bus segregation (Browder v. Gayle) (1956): Shortly after the Montgomery bus boycott, Black activists brought a federal lawsuit against the state of Alabama’s bus segregation laws.

16th Street Baptist Church bombing (1963): On September 15th, 1963, four white supremacist terrorists bombed the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, Alabama. The terrorists were members of a local Ku Klux Klan chapter and had planted 19 sticks of dynamite in the church.

The attempted assassination of Governor George C. Wallace (1972): Alabama Governor George C. Wallace campaigned for U.S. President in 1972. While campaigning in Maryland, Arthur Bremer attempted to assassinate him. Wallace survived but was paralyzed from the waist down.

Closing arguments on the Marion Three Case (1985): Albert Turner was a civil rights activist and participated in the Voting Rights March from Selma to Montgomery. Turner led the Perry County Civic League (PCCCL), which led voter assistance programs.

Space Shuttle Challenger disaster (1986): The Space Shuttle Challenger launched and exploded 73 seconds into its flight on January 28, 1986. All seven crew members onboard were killed in the disaster.
