Australian Newspapers Collection (1831–2000)

Two of the most influential Australian newspapers: The Age and Sydney Morning Herald

PROVIDING NEARLY 170 YEARS of coverage, this collection includes the two leading Australian newspapers: The Age (1854–2000) and the Sydney Morning Herald (1831–2000).

The Age is known for its investigative reporting and along with its journalists, has won dozens of Australia's most prestigious journalism prizes, including the Walkley Award. Since 1854, The Age has reported on the latest local news on Melbourne, Victoria and news from across the world.

Sydney Morning Herald is the oldest continuously published and most widely-read newspaper in Australia. Founded in 1831, the Sydney Morning Herald has been providing readers with significant news from Sydney, Australia and the world.

Both newspapers are considered two of the most influential Australian newspapers and have been labeled Australia’s newspapers of record. With these newspapers, gain insight into politics, business, culture, sports, and more throughout Australian history. Support research and learning of key issues and events, including:

- Business
- Economic Woes
- Effects of the Great Depression
- Forming the Commonwealth of Australia
- Gold rushes
- Government Formation
- Immigration
- Korean War
- Political Science
- Urban Planning
- World History

This unique collections is cross searchable with all ProQuest’s historical and current newspapers. Gain a different perspective of the events/issue by cross searching with one of ProQuest's U.S., Canadian, or international newspaper titles.

Curriculum Focus

- Aboriginal Studies
- Australian History
- British Colonization
- Culture
- Economics
- Military & Diplomatic History
- Political Science
- Urban Planning
- World History

Why the Australian Newspapers Collection?

- Full access to this authoritative account of Australian history: This collection of Australian historical newspapers, which offers coverage of The Age (1854–2000) and the Sydney Morning Herald (1831–2000), provides valuable insight into the political and social life of Australia throughout history. Advertisements, editorials, cartoons, and classified ads are also included in the resource, as they illuminate as much history as the articles.

- Insight into multiple perspectives: Not only does presenting this newspaper on the ProQuest platform allow for cover-to-cover searching and browsing of complete issues of this newspaper, but users can find a broader view of issues and events by cross searching all of ProQuest’s complete runs of historical and current newspapers.

- User-friendly support tools to facilitate research: Indexed at the page level, users can focus on relevant information quickly with hit-term highlighting, searchable PDFs, and image downloads in PDF format.

- Award-winning, user-friendly interface: ProQuest was awarded Best Interface in the 2015 Charleston Advisor Reader’s Choice Awards: “It is much more intuitive and easy to use than previous versions. It includes improved document viewing, easier navigation...Kudos to ProQuest.”

To learn more or contact us, visit https://about.proquest.com/en/content-solutions/news/

For more information, contact ProQuest at sales@proquest.com or call 1-800-779-0137.