INVESTIGATE DECADES OF CANADIAN HISTORY WITH NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers provide multiple perspectives of how stories unfolded – and continue to unfold – over years and decades. They reveal local perspectives on regional, national and international affairs providing insight on how everyday lives are impacted and influenced.

June 1944
Allied troops were able to successfully land on the Normandy Coast and push inland, also known as D-Day, beginning the end of the war.

May 1967
Expo 67 was a World’s Fair held in Montreal which is considered to be the most successful World’s Fair of the 20th Century. It was also Canada’s main celebration during its centennial year. The fifty millionth visitor enters Expo 67, one day before the event’s end.

December 1989
The École Polytechnique massacre, also known as the Montreal massacre, was a mass shooting that occurred at the Université de Montréal. It led to the death of 14 women and 13 being injured. The gunman walked into a classroom in the engineering building and shouted, “You are all feminists,” before opening fire.

June 1993
The Montreal Canadiens take home their 24th Stanley Cup victory. Thousands of fans flooded the streets to celebrate this victory.
Montreal Gazette (1785–2010)

The Montreal Gazette is Montreal's only surviving English-language newspaper, as well as the oldest daily still in print in all of Canada. Originally founded as The Gazette, the paper offers much insight into Canadian history in the late 19th Century as well as important coverage of international, national, provincial, and local events. Coverage includes past events of current historical landmarks such as the Notre-Dame Basilica of Montreal, Saint Joseph’s Oratory of Mount Royal, and the Old Port of Montreal. The paper gives insight into the commercial, social, and cultural life of the future city of Montreal via the large number of business and professional cards, the advertisements, and notices of local organizations. The Montreal Gazette is also home to several National Newspaper Award-winning editorial writers including Edgar A. Collard's chronicle of the history of Montreal, Henry Aubin's groundbreaking environmental investigations, and award-winning editorial cartoonist “Aislin” (Terry Mosher).

THE NEED FOR NEWS

In an era where local news coverage has been on the decline, historical regional papers can transport students and researchers to another time where smaller newspapers served as the informational hub of the community. Stories about neighborhood personalities, town events, city politics, schools, agriculture, commerce and other local business aren’t available anywhere else.

Additionally, regional newspapers reveal local perspectives on national and international affairs for insight on how everyday lives are impacted and influenced by the issues and events that dominate the headlines of major metropolitan papers.

72% of researchers use news today

A 2017 ProQuest study shows that newspapers are a vital tool in research – they’re used by 72% of researchers and recommended by 80% of researchers who teach.

EXTREMELY IMPORTANT

Faculty state that developing critical thinking skills in students is extremely important.

From a 2018 survey of more than 1,300 faculty and students on the use of varied content in research, teaching, and learning, faculty indicate why they assign primary sources in teaching.
