Black History

History vault: Reverend. J.H. Jackson and the National Baptist Convention, 1900–1990

The Reverend Joseph H. Jackson was the longest-serving president of the National Baptist Convention, serving in that role from 1953–1982, and pastor at Olivet Baptist Church on Chicago’s South Side from 1941 until his death in 1990. During his presidency of the National Baptist Convention, at the height of the civil rights movement in the 1950s and 1960s, Jackson spoke about the importance of loyalty to the federal government and emphasized the ballot as the strongest weapon in obtaining civil rights. Jackson’s stance put him in conflict with other Baptist leaders, including Martin Luther King, Jr., who favored nonviolent civil disobedience to achieve civil rights reforms. The Jackson Papers span from 1889–2003 but focus on the period from 1950–1990. A major series of National Baptist Convention records includes Jackson’s correspondence during his time as the organization’s president, minutes of meetings, Jackson’s annual addresses to the National Baptist Convention, and some of his writings on civil rights and civil disobedience. The collection also includes a major series of Jackson sermons from 1928–1988, and personal records focused on his years as a graduate student from 1925–1945.

ProQuest Black Studies

New!

Black Lives Matter (BLM) Movement: Over 500 articles selected from The New York Times on the Black Lives Matter movement were added to support research of this current movement.

Black Studies in Video: 850 videos from Alexander Street’s Black Thought and Culture: Selected items from Alexander Street’s Black Thought and Culture: Content added includes writings, speeches, or oral histories of Carter G. Woodson, Booker T. Washington, James Weldon Johnson, Langston Hughes, Mary Church Terrell, Dorothy Height, Amiri Baraka, Kathleen Cleaver, Bayard Rustin, and others.

Cultural History

Underground and Independent Comics, Comix, and Graphic Novels: Volume III, The Modern Age

New!

Dedicated to a pivotal era that ushered in significant changes in the realms of storytelling, representation, and the cultural relevance of comics, this collection offers in-copyright material. Within this volume, researchers can examine trends and developments particular to the Modern Age of comics in North America — digital creation tools, innovative shifts in art and narratives, and the rise of independent publishing houses and diverse voices.

This volume aims to show how comics, like many other art forms, have dynamically evolved unfolding new artistic mediums and presenting unique perspectives from underrepresented comics creators, including voices from indigenous, black, Asian, and LGBTQ+ communities. The collection is balanced with industry how-to publications offering historical context, varieties of methodologies and practices, and invaluable industry insights from top professionals into the creative and business aspects of narrative fiction writing.

The Daily News Record Archive

New!

The Daily News Record Archive is one of the longest-running fashion trade titles and a leading news resource for the fashion industry. It features 90+ years of breaking fashion news, expert analysis, and imagery chronicling fashion market dynamics, design evolution, and business strategies. This exclusive archive brings a focus on men’s fashion, an area largely unrepresented by digital archives until now. Highly influential in the industry, this publication contributed to the establishment of several key menswear fashion shows.

With the Daily News Record Archive, users can assemble the source material to identify and interpret the key industry trends and shifts, such as shifts in consumer preferences, materials, manufacturing technology innovation, brand strategies, societal impacts of fashion trends, sustainability practices, and retail and distribution trends.

The Footwear News Archive

New!

This primary source material allows for researchers to identify and interpret the key events and trends in the industry, such as shifts in consumer preferences and behavior, innovations in materials and manufacturing technology, brand strategies, societal impacts of footwear trends, sustainability practices, retail, and distribution trends.
Popular Culture Studies in Video

Coming in Q3 2024!

Through documentaries on films, television, fashion, comics, and gaming, this collection covers a wide spectrum of pop culture topics and spotlights influential figures across the fields of entertainment, art, sports, and cultural spheres. It also explores the evolution of French cinema and Hollywood's enduring imprint on cultural trends from the 20th to the 21st centuries, the transformative power of television and its pivotal role in shaping cultural narratives, and video gaming’s impact on modern culture including the role of women in gaming.

Through collaboration with respected publishers and independent filmmakers, this collection brings together a wide range of content representing the many angles of pop culture. The collection enriches studies in cinema, television, history, and cultural studies. Additionally, it captures the evolution of fashion history by offering a visual exploration of clothing styles and trends across historical periods, societies, and cultural movements.

Early Modern History

Early European Books, Collection 24: Debate in Early Modern Europe

New!

Within this collection are pivotal texts, primarily in French, spanning the late 15th to the early 18th century. It features seminal classical works, and explores an array of subjects, from political and philosophical discourse to scientific and religious debates. During this era, the accessibility of printed books to all societal levels, not just the privileged, served as a crucial means of spreading knowledge and stimulating debate. These texts critically deconstruct military campaigns, political strategies, and engage in debate on modernizing religion, language, and expanding philosophy.

Sourced from the Bibliothèque Nationale de France, these historic texts provide scholars important insights into religious change, the nature of power, medical advancements, and other challenges faced by European societies. The collection is essential for those studying early modern European history, literature, law, philosophy, and political sciences.

Historical Periodicals

Ethnicity & Culture Magazine Archive

Coming in Q3 2024!

This collection contains the backfiles of over 30 magazines from the 20th to the 21st century, each aimed at ethnically specific audiences. It complements traditional scholarly resources by offering a rich primary source archive of largely untapped publications from communities including African American, Latinx, Asian, and Indigenous, as well as publications reflecting the European immigration to the U.S. from the 19th century forward. Spanning political titles to publications concerned with fashion, beauty, and identity, the collection reflects diverse voices and gives insight into cultural perspectives, societal shifts, and historical events. Titles are presented in color page-image format with article-level metadata and searchable text.

Military & Diplomatic History

DNSA 62: U.S. Foreign Policy in the Carter Years, 1977-1981: Highest-Level Memos to the President

This collection of highest-level foreign policy materials from the Jimmy Carter administration features every declassified daily or weekly memo to the president from National Security Advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski and from Secretaries of State Cyrus Vance and Edmund Muskie; as well as every available meeting record of the National Security Council’s two subgroups – the Policy Review Committee and the Special Coordination Committee. Many of the records have the president’s own handwritten notations. Topics cover the gamut of foreign policy issues during this pivotal period, notably conflicts in the Middle East, the Iran hostage crisis, the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, SALT talks with Moscow, the opening of diplomatic relations with China, the Nicaraguan revolution, energy, and a growing U.S. emphasis on global human rights.

New!

The 63rd release of the Digital National Security Archive meticulously assembles a curated assortment of documents that provide a detailed exploration into the formative period of U.S.-Russian relations from the inception of the new Russia in December 1991 to January 2001. This collection captures pivotal moments in diplomatic history during the presidencies of Boris Yeltsin and Bill Clinton, alongside the first notes of discord emerging under Vladimir Putin. Resulting from years of extensive archival research and numerous targeted Freedom of Information Act requests, this unparalleled compilation features a diverse array of memoranda detailing conversations among Yeltsin, Putin, and Clinton, as well as correspondence between top leaders, high-level memos from the Clinton administration, and analyses of Russia’s defense capabilities. Core topics encompass meticulous tracking of negotiations on nuclear arms reductions, non-proliferation efforts, and the withdrawal and dismantlement of nuclear weapons in Ukraine, Belarus, and Kazakhst.
U.S. History

History Vault 68: Stephen S. Wise Papers: Rabbi, Scholar, Activist, 1874-1949

New!

This archive documents Rabbi Stephen S. Wise’s influential contributions to 20th-century American history. It chronicles his impact through biographical details, personal letters, activism records, and writings on religious and political matters. His pivotal involvement in events like Zionism and the Versailles Peace Conference is highlighted, along with his founding of key organizations such as the New York Federation of Zionist Societies, leadership in national Zionist federations, chairmanship of the United Palestine Appeal, and his instrumental roles in establishing the American Jewish Congress and organizing the World Jewish Congress.

With topics spanning religious issues, civil rights, international relations, and interactions with notable figures including David Ben-Gurion, Reinhold Niebuhr, Woodrow Wilson, and Franklin Roosevelt, this collection aids researchers in understanding the complexities of 20th-century American history, Jewish identity, and the evolution of social activism.

New!

The records of the Fair Employment Practice Committee (FEPC) is a valuable resource for scholarly exploring the history of civil rights in the workplace and the landscape of civil liberties in America during World War II. Established in 1941 with the purpose of ensuring equal employment opportunities for minorities in defense industries during the war, the FEPC held jurisdiction over complaints against the federal government, employers, and labor unions under contract with the federal government, as well as entities and unions engaged in war production.

Collection documents encompass thousands of complaints spanning race, national origin, and religion, resulting in a diverse set of documents such as central records, office correspondence, case documents, reports from FEPC regional offices, meeting minutes, internal studies, memoranda, analyses, transcripts, legal opinions, case files, and individual worker records.

History Vault 71: Labor Priests: Progressive Politics and the Catholic Church, Francis J. Haas Papers, 1904-1953

Coming in Q4 2024!

This archive details Francis Joseph Haas’s lifelong dedication to the Catholic Church and workers’ welfare. Encompassing Haas’s family, education, professional roles, and government engagements, the collection focuses most heavily on his role as a public servant in New Deal agencies and as a labor arbitrator in the 1930s and 1940s. The included materials offer profound insights into the areas of labor relations, governmental policies, and religious studies.

Haas’s positions in New Deal agencies, as a labor arbitrator, his scope as chair of Fair Employment Practices Committee and his contributions to academia and religious spheres at The Catholic University of America demonstrate his impact on these fields. These firsthand accounts provide insights into Francis J. Haas’s roles in pivotal historical eras, enriching interdisciplinary studies focused on societal, governmental, and religious dynamics.

Women’s History

Woman’s History and Social Movements in the U.S. 2024 Edition

New!

Explore the multiplicity of women’s activism in American public life from colonial times to the present. The collection is organized around document projects. Each is a scholarly work that links an interpretive essay to 30 or more related primary documents. Four new document projects will be added in 2024, alongside book reviews, round table discussions, and more. The projects will continue to explore Indigenous women’s history as part of the “Voices of Indigenous Women in North America, American Empire and the Global South, 1820-2020: A Syllabus with Documents.”

ProQuest Women’s & Gender Studies

New!

Developed in collaboration with faculty, scholars, and librarians, ProQuest Women’s & Gender Studies reimagines ProQuest’s award-winning women’s, men’s, masculinity, and LGBTQ+ studies content as a single, essential destination to serve research and learning in the field.

Curated interdisciplinary collections, many of which are rare and exclusive, are presented within a user interface specifically tailored for gender studies research. Thematic, visual timelines help students understand the sequence and relationship of the seminal events of women’s and gender history, and curated topic pages offer the contextual information researchers need to explore the organizations and people who’ve shaped five centuries of history and our contemporary understanding of gender.

ProQuest Women’s & Gender Studies serves researchers in women’s, gender, and LGBTQ+ studies with rich content and a student-centric approach to support interdisciplinary study across daily life, education, fashion and lifestyle, domesticity, health care, media stereotypes, cultural norms, and equal rights globally.

BBC News Bulletin Scripts Archive

Coming in Q4 2024!

BBC News Bulletin Scripts Archive chronicles daily radio bulletin transcripts that provide an overview of unfolding local and global news events. News stories, across six daily broadcasts, show revisions throughout the day to reflect the latest breaking news developments, changes in reporting tone, and emphasis of a story. In doing so, these bulletin transcripts offer researchers valuable context for understanding 20th-century history, culture, and society.

Now digitally available exclusively from ProQuest, these bulletin transcripts contain original annotations and real-time updates, presenting researchers with a new level of detail and accuracy in their study of historical news reporting practices. Scholars can analyze the changes made to the original script, such as what was highlighted, crossed out, or added, to understand how news stories were edited and refined before airing.

Gender Studies
Queer Past, 2024 Exhibits

This collection of primary source exhibits for students and scholars of queer history and culture uses “queer” in its broadest and most inclusive sense, to embrace topics that are gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender. It also includes work on sexual and gender formations that are queer but not necessarily LGBT. Each of the document collections in the database includes a critical introductory essay that helps explain the significance of the primary sources in historical terms and in relation to previous scholarship.

Over the course of 2024, ProQuest will be releasing additional exhibits that will cover queer history in Canada and Mexico, LGBTQ+ activism, queer consumerism, interracial queer marriage, and more.
World Events and the Media
Coming in Q3 2024!

World Events and the Media, a Global Issues Library Collection, provides insight into the pivotal moments that defined journalism, sourced from exclusive firsthand accounts, memoirs, and archival records revealing journalists’ experiences and ethical dilemmas during critical coverage. This curated collection explores crucial historical moments, trials, conflicts, and global movements from a new journalistic angle that uncovers the raw emotions, challenges, and transformative shifts within the profession.

Beyond the headlines, it uncovers the untold stories and hidden layers of media coverage, providing a view into unfiltered historical moments. Through archives from journalists’ post-event and video interviews and documentaries, this collection provides a unique lens to trace the path of media’s influence on public perception and discourse. This distinctive perspective enables researchers to scrutinize how pivotal events haven’t just transformed journalism but deeply impacted societal narratives.

Aging in the Modern World
Coming in Q4 2024!

Aging in the Modern World, a Global Issues Library collection, provides an array of multimedia primary and secondary sources—reference materials, policies, personal life history narratives, historical magazines, and archival government documents spanning decades for undergraduates and graduates investigating the historical and cultural impacts of aging populations.

This collection uniquely focuses on key themes related to aging, encompassing rights advocacy and legal measures combating ageism, urban planning for the aged, societal treatment of the elderly, and the significant political influence of the older demographic. Additionally, it provides comparative perspectives across diverse cultures, offering insights into retirement and lifestyles and education.

With the wide range of themes, the collection not only shows the challenges that have been faced by aging populations globally but also societal advancements in striving to ensure a better quality of life for the aging population.

Political Science
& Public Policy

Trends & Policy:
U.S. Criminal Justice
New!

This collection merges content from a variety of sources and presents them in a unique interface designed to connect various criminal justice policies of the United States to their trending results. Included in this extensive module are all criminal justice-related public laws and hearings, Legislative branch reports, Executive branch reports and data, press releases, and present-day and historical news articles. The design of the product includes timelines, contextual topic pages for laws, concepts, and events, and relayed statistical content that allows researchers to work with the data.

ProQuest Executive Branch Documents (EBD) Great Series and Reports

New and more coming in Q4 2024!

This curated collection of executive branch documents focuses on a complete series and monographs relevant to issues of today and their historical context. Parts are released annually covering the years 1953-present and consisting of approximately 25,000 documents, including complete runs of series and selected monographs from a variety of agencies. This collection builds upon Executive Branch Documents 1-6, which covers 1789-1952. Entitled users can search all executive branch content together and link back to pre-1953 documents from the later documents in a series. Entitled users can also search legislative content related to reports required by Congress with the reports themselves, and link from the executive branch document records to the related Public Law text, EBD Great Series and Reports facilitates teaching and learning about government policies, the implementation of laws, and changes in executive branch organization over time.

• New! Part 1 launched with 6,300 series documents and 30 monographs with the remainder of the content to be added on an ongoing basis in 2024.
• Coming in Q4 2024! Part 2 will launch with approximately 25,000 documents, including complete series and selected monographs.

Trends and Policy: U.S. Civil Rights

Coming in Q4 2024!

The fifth module within the Trends and Policy series of collections, this innovative resource seamlessly merges content from diverse sources, offering a unique interface that connects various U.S. policies to their trending outcomes. It draws upon ProQuest’s extensive archive of legislative and executive branch materials. Catering specifically to researchers and students exploring civil rights policies, this database eliminates the need to navigate multiple disjointed resources. This collection is perfect for undergraduates and law students delving into African American, Asian American, LGBTQ+, and women’s studies, alongside disciplines such as U.S. history, political science, and sociology. The platform goes beyond conventional offerings by providing comprehensive insights into the executive, legislative, and judicial aspects of civil rights policies, their real-world impact, and implications for civil liberties. Additional features such as topical pages, curated timelines, and downloadable statistical tables make this an invaluable asset for teaching and learning U.S. civil rights.

Data excellence

Librarians and their patrons can benefit from the best possible data and data management processes across Ex Libris services. Over 10 million portfolios from leading providers are being updated daily, with more providers and collections added every month. Internal workflows are being improved to ensure new collections are added faster and in a more transparent way. Further efforts are expanding capabilities to add authority vocabularies to further support diversity initiatives.

Linked open data

Ex Libris is continuing its ongoing effort to leverage the global metadata ecosystem to benefit libraries, librarians and patrons. Ex Libris is leading the way to Linked Open Data integration across its services plans to enable end-to-end linked open data in production from cataloging to discovery by 2024, by collaborating with the user community, and other leading organizations. By bringing Linked Open Data into the library, you’re joining a metadata ecosystem of global discoverability and comprehensive interoperability. Cataloging is far more accurate and much less manual, while search results are relevant, reliable, informative and fast.

Ex Libris™ Integrations

Our teams have been working on exciting new integrations between our products to enhance value for libraries and their patrons. We have integrated holdings data from Alma into InCites™ to enhance collection management reporting and improve purchasing decisions. EndNote customers with Alma can take advantage of an integration to help patrons get to PDF’s easier. In addition, we enriched the Central Discovery Index (CDI) with more accurate metadata and new collections from Web of Science to deliver a better search experience in both Primo and Summon.
Community engagement

Vega Promote Web
This website building tool is easy to use (regardless of your level of web experience), flexible enough to integrate patron account management and other library tools, and worry-free because we take care of the hosting and security for you. Vega Promote Web can easily scale to help single-site libraries, consortia, or universities modernize their digital presence. Built-in features include library-specific templates, drag-and-drop design, Artificial Intelligence (AI) assistance for copy writing, and a centralized content management system.

In addition, we’ve built ILS integrations for patron account self-service. Lastly, we prioritize user experience through an accessibility checker and Search Engine Optimization (SEO) support, and enterprise-grade performance, security and reliability.

Vega Program
Developed by and for librarians, Vega Program gives library staff the tools they need to successfully orchestrate and advertise their programs, whether in person or online, standalone or recurring. This tool’s intuitive features empower staff to coordinate their full breadth of events. From the administrative dashboard, staff can easily create, edit, or clone events, while using advanced settings for transaction fees (via Stripe), room reservation approvals, and waitlist management. Room reservations can be set up for spaces of any size from a study carrel to an auditorium, from special equipment to time with library staff. In addition, built-in marketing tools provide staff with one-click event flyers and QR codes plus automated printable brochures.

Vega Promote
Stay connected with students and community members through targeted and relevant emails to your different user groups. Vega Promote’s cloud-based platform allows libraries to communicate what they want, when they want, to whom they want.

Key features include a drag-and-drop email design tool and custom design library where you can save email templates and design blocks. Built-in tools help you protect your sender reputation with automated unsubscribe and bounceback workflows, and a default footer to help meet regulation. You can view engagement data for email opens and clicks to measure your campaigns.

Innovative library software

Polaris ILS
This consistently popular, comprehensive ILS and web-based interface is designed specifically for the unique needs of public libraries of all types — single site, multi-branch, and consortia. With its responsive web interface, Polaris empowers staff to connect with patrons and complete tasks wherever it is most convenient — in the stacks, at community events, or even working from home. Libraries that adopt Polaris quickly see staff productivity increase, patron satisfaction soar, and experience returns on their technology investment.

Our libraries report that after implementing the Polaris ILS, staff are able to spend less time managing the catalog and acquisitions, less time creating reports, and more time on high-value activities like serving patrons.

Vega Discover
Help patrons search, find, and browse resources quickly and easily. Vega Discover provides the modern online experience patrons have come to expect, with an intuitive interface and enrichment content to create an immersive library experience.

Features include a customizable catalog homepage, Discover showcases where libraries can display any arrangement of resources, and enhanced discovery powered by Syndetics Unbound. When patrons search, they see all formats and editions of the same title rolled into one result. eContent is fully integrated and they can start reading an ebook straight from the catalog. Finally, we prioritize accessibility with regular VPATs to ensure adherence to ADA, Section 508, and WCAG 2.1 standards.

Vega Promote
Stay connected with students and community members through targeted and relevant emails to your different user groups. Vega Promote’s cloud-based platform allows libraries to communicate what they want, when they want, to whom they want.

Key features include a drag-and-drop email design tool and custom design library where you can save email templates and design blocks. Built-in tools help you protect your sender reputation with automated unsubscribe and bounceback workflows, and a default footer to help meet regulation. You can view engagement data for email opens and clicks to measure your campaigns.

Innovative Mobile
Let your patrons search your catalog, place holds, renew and check out materials, register for events and more right from their phone.

From managing their patron and family accounts to optional self-checkout or scheduling curbside pickup, the Innovative Mobile app empowers patrons while saving time for your staff.

We call it Innovative Mobile, but your patrons will see it as your library app — customized with your library’s name, logo, colors, and selected layout. And it integrates with 13 different integrated library systems (ILS). Put the library in your patrons’ hands with Innovative Mobile.

ProQuest Historical Newspapers

Historical Newspapers: U.S. Collection

Historical Newspapers: U.S. Collection explores America’s events and stories—past and present—through a collection of over 130 exclusive local newspaper titles across 35 states and growing. Titles span from the first historical issue to the most recent, with the ability to experience each issue as it was originally printed, page by page, in crisp detail for an immersive research experience.

News happens everywhere. This collection delivers first-hand accounts of news where and when it happened on the ground, with state, local and community news that was not covered in national and international dailies. Additionally, unique local perspectives and interpretations of national and global events provide an alternate lens through which to study key events and social issues of the past and present.

Historical Newspapers: ABC (Spain) (1903–2010)

First published in Madrid in 1903, ABC is the oldest newspaper still operating in Madrid, the second largest newspaper in Spain, and one of three newspapers of record in Spain. It has always been considered the most well written among Spanish newspapers with many great writers and intellectuals contributing over the years. The newspaper uses extensive photography and was the first European newspaper to use photo engraving. ABC has a dedicated foreign bureau and offers considerable editorial space to foreign news, and coverage of the arts and Spanish culture.

Historical Newspapers: St. Louis American (1949-2010)

The St. Louis American stands as a steadfast witness to the community, serving and reporting on the African American experience since its beginning in March 1928. This enduring weekly founded by Nathan B. Young, the first Black appointed municipal judge in St. Louis, and several prominent African American businessmen, has played a pivotal role in chronicling and championing African Americans in St. Louis. From its modest beginnings as an eight-page tabloid with a circulation of just over 2,000, the St. Louis American has evolved into the single largest weekly newspaper in Missouri. The newspaper has been a crucial voice in highlighting St. Louis’s historical significance for African Americans, from its key location on the Underground Railroad in the early to mid-19th century, to the establishment of a vibrant Black community, and serving as an active hub for civil rights in the 20th century. The St. Louis American remains a trusted source of news tailored to the Black community reporting not only on social issues, but also on national and regional news, religion, sports, and entertainment.
the Hamilton Spectator is a Canadian newspaper in the port city of Hamilton in the province of Ontario. Founded by Robert Smiley in 1846, the newspaper has been a cornerstone of Hamilton’s history as an important steel and commerce port for over 175 years. Initially established as The Hamilton Spectator and Journal of Commerce, Smiley’s newspaper faced a competitive market with four existing papers in Hamilton. Despite the challenges, the paper quickly gained traction. Through the lens of The Spectator, Hamiltonians witnessed pivotal moments including the Great Depression and both World Wars. The newspaper became a vital source for families during wartime, delivering news from overseas and reporting on the impact of conflicts like the Dieppe Raid in 1942. The Spectator also delved into societal issues, tackling subjects such as poverty and environmental concerns like sewage dumping in the harbor. Some notable personalities in The Spectator’s history include one of the first female journalists at the paper Ella Reynolds, who wrote under the pen name Jennie Wren, and city editor Edward Morrison, known for his vitriolic pen and illustrations. The newspaper evolved with technological leaps, utilizing the telegraph to access global information. From the poignant tales of families anxiously awaiting news from overseas during wartime to the incisive reporting on societal issues, The Hamilton Spectator has been a chronicler of the city’s triumphs, losses, and transformations.

The Waterloo Region Record has been a reliable source of news, covering local, national, and international news, The Globe plays a pivotal role in shaping New England’s discourse. ProQuest Historical Newspapers now offers extension years from 1994 to 2007, supplementing the existing archive from 1872 to 1993. This expanded content captures pivotal moments, including the “Spotlight” team’s groundbreaking investigation into Catholic Church sexual abuse, inspiring reforms and earning the Globe a Pulitzer, with the story later adapted into a 2015 movie. The additional years also chronicle significant events such as the Boston Red Sox breaking the “Curse of the Bambino” by winning the World Series in 2004 and 2007, Mitt Romney’s Governorship (2003-2007), and Boston’s thriving biotechnology boom in the early 2000s.
Web of Science

Web of Science Research Assistant

Coming soon

A generative AI-powered tool available from September 2024

Web of Science™ Research Assistant helps researchers at all levels get more out of the world’s most trusted citation database — Web of Science Core Collection™.

Start a new chat by asking a question

Ask a research question

Choose a guided task:

- Understand a topic: Work through a set of challenges to learn key concepts, and then apply what you’ve learned.
- Literature review: Examine relevant literature and critically evaluate the evidence to support your work.
- Find a journal: Find the right journal to publish your work in.

Web of Science Grants Index

A new collection of awarded grant records linked to publications

The Grants Index on the Web of Science platform, released in January 2024, presents standardized data directly sourced from funders around the globe to help you quickly explore the details of previously awarded grants as you research your topic.

This new collection of 5.2M+ records for awarded grants from 400+ funding agencies enables you to:

- Understand what’s already been funded
- Differentiate new projects and proposals
- Explore past funding activity alongside a wide array of research outputs in a single platform
- View published research outcomes of funded projects

Reference management solutions

RefWorks

RefWorks is a cloud-based reference management service offering thousands of citation styles. It simplifies research workflow, making it simple to collect, organize, share and collaborate. It integrates with top writing tools, seamlessly imports from databases and discovery tools, and has administrative controls to measure ROI.

EndNote

EndNote™ is the reference manager that helps researchers and students save time, stay organized, and collaborate effectively as they write and publish research papers. EndNote 21 includes bold new features like reference tagging and data restoration that enhance productivity and protect your work.
Research Funding & Analytics

InCites Benchmarking & Analytics™
A flexible research evaluation tool that helps you easily analyze trusted data to make confident decisions about your research programs. Get the evidence you need to inform strategic planning, benchmark against peers, demonstrate funding outcomes and optimize collaborations.

- Research Horizon Navigator™
  - Introducing a new module within InCites Benchmarking & Analytics that allows you to discover new topics emerging on the research horizon. This tool is designed to empower academics, funding agencies and research strategists to quickly discover emerging topics that point to where future breakthroughs are likely to occur. The tool is exclusively available to InCites Benchmarking & Analytics subscribers.

Pivot-RP™
An expert-curated source of global funding opportunities with powerful workflow, intelligence and discovery tools. Communicate efficiently to researchers and partners using time-saving tools and AI-driven author matching. Strengthen proposals by leveraging trusted funding intelligence and awarded grants data.

Research Professional News™
A trusted source for authoritative, editorially independent news, analysis and commentary that helps your entire institution make better decisions. Stay ahead of research policy and news with topics such as funder’s strategies, government research policy changes, publishing, research careers and international partnerships informed by exclusive discussions with senior policy makers and influencers.

Esploro™
A research portal and profiles showcase that automatically captures publications and datasets, connecting all information into a portrait of your institution. Reduce manual entry and break down data silos to link comprehensive scholarly information from the most trusted sources across all academic disciplines.

Web of Science Data
Used by 75% of research assessment exercises worldwide, the data can be delivered via APIs, XML datasets, or in bespoke formats to support large-scale research evaluation projects or data integration needs at your institution. Populate your business intelligence systems and analyze research outcomes using reliable, meticulously structured data from the world’s most trusted citation database.

Consultancy
A team of research leaders and data scientists who apply decades of experience, quality data, and specialized approaches. Enhance your action plan so you can uniquely position your research enterprise for growth in an evidence-to-impact climate.
Think forward to a new era in research and learning

With over 150 years of pioneering heritage, evolving and innovating is written in our DNA. Our solutions, insights and content empower you to anticipate and navigate the ever-changing complexities of academia so that you can nurture your curiosity and have the confidence to push the boundaries of knowledge.

This is our Think forward™ promise — connecting you to intelligence you can trust to advance a new era in research and learning.

About Clarivate

Clarivate is a leading global information services provider. We help people and organizations think forward by connecting them to intelligence they can trust to transform their perspective, their work and our world. Working with the scientific and academic community, we empower institutions and libraries to drive meaningful impact at scale by connecting trusted content, deep expertise and responsible innovation. Clarivate is home to leading research, education and library solutions, including Web of Science™, ProQuest™, Ex Libris™ and Innovative™.
