Black History

History vault: Reverend J.H. Jackson and the National Baptist Convention, 1900–1990

The Reverend Joseph H. Jackson was the longest-serving president of the National Baptist Convention, serving in that role from 1953–1982, and pastor at Olivet Baptist Church on Chicago’s South Side from 1941 until his death in 1990. During his presidency of the National Baptist Convention, at the height of the civil rights movement in the 1950s and 1960s, Jackson spoke about the importance of loyalty to the federal government and emphasized the ballot as the strongest weapon in obtaining civil rights. Jackson’s stance put him in conflict with other Baptist leaders, including Martin Luther King, Jr., who favored nonviolent civil disobedience to achieve civil rights reforms. The Jackson Papers span from 1889–2003 but focus on the period from 1950–1990. A major series of National Baptist Convention records includes Jackson’s correspondence during his time as the organization’s president, minutes of meetings, Jackson’s annual addresses to the National Baptist Convention, and some of his writings on civil rights and civil disobedience. The collection also includes a major series of Jackson sermons from 1928–1988, and personal records focused on his years as a graduate student from 1925–1945.

ProQuest Black Studies

New!

Organizations Topic Pages: The topic page collection contains additions of 19 featured organizations such as African American Police League (AAPL), Black Lives Matter (BLM), Black Panther Party, NAACP, and Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

Black Lives Matter (BLM) Movement: Over 500 articles selected from The New York Times on the Black Lives Matter movement were added to support research of this current movement.

Black Studies in Video: 850 videos from Alexander Street Black Studies in Video were added covering African American history, politics, art and culture, family structure, gender relationships, and social and economic issues.

The Hollywood Reporter Archive is a valuable digital backfile spanning over 85 years, from 1930 (inaugural issue) to 2015, chronicling the Hollywood film, television, and entertainment industries. Comprising approximately 300,000 pages, this archive represents an extensive historical record. It offers insights into the film industry’s technological advancements, economic fluctuations, and regulatory changes, revealing the forces that have shaped it. Through contemporary reviews, critical analyses, and box office data, the archive earns the emergence of film genres and the ever-evolving tastes of audiences.

The VIBE Archive

This archive consists of the full run of VIBE magazine, the U.S. magazine of music, culture, and lifestyle covering the underground and independent music scenes from 1986-present. Founded by Quincy Jones, VIBE not only offered influential reporting and news about rap, hip-hop, and R&B music but more broadly represented the often marginalized and underrepresented voices of the Black community. This archive is a valuable resource for those studying the development of music, culture, and lifestyle in the 20th and 21st centuries.

The House Beautiful Archive

The archive of the US edition of House Beautiful, from its first issue in 1896 to the present. The oldest still-published US shelter magazine, House Beautiful not only records the history of interior design, but demonstrates how broader social and cultural trends — e.g. women’s roles, family life, new technologies, and consumer behavior — have manifested themselves in domestic settings for over 125 years. This volume aims to show how comics, like many other art forms, have dynamically evolved unfolding new artistic mediums and presenting new perspectives from underrepresented comics creators, including voices from indigenous, black, Asian, and LGBTQ+ communities. The collection is balanced with industry how-to publications offering historical context, varieties of methodologies and practices, and invaluable industry insights from top professionals into the creative and business aspects of narrative fiction writing.

The Hollywood Reporter Archive

This collection comprises a variety of 20th-century serials covering many aspects of children’s lives and interests. These include titles focusing on education, entertainment/ literature, news, and religion/ moral development. As well as shedding light on the history of childhood and family life during this period, these titles will provide alternative perspectives in the study of 20th-century advertising/marketing, popular culture, education, media, and print culture. Major titles include Sesame Street Magazine, Look and Learn, The Children’s Newspaper, and Boy’s Own Paper.

Underground and Independent Comics, Comix, and Graphic Novels: Volume III, The Modern Age

Coming in H1 2024

*Underground and Independent Comics, Comix, and Graphic Novels: Volume III - The Modern Age (1986-present) offers in-copyright material dedicated to a pivotal era that ushered in significant changes in the realms of storytelling, representation, and the cultural relevance of comics. Within this volume, researchers can examine trends and developments particular to the Modern Age of comics in North America — digital creation tools, innovative shifts in art and narratives, and the rise of independent publishing houses and diverse voices.

Early Modern Europe, Collection 22: Pastimes in Early Modern France

Featuring over 550 items and more than 297,000 pages of materials from the Bibliothèque nationale de France, the culture of France is eclectically represented through works on pastimes and recreation. These works cover a wide range of topics, from classical works, travel guides, dictionaries, phrase books, and religious texts to instruction in foreign languages, as well as hobbies such as hunting, duelling, coin collecting, and winemaking.

Early Modern Europe, Collection 23: Education, Society and Cultural Life

This enriching collection features rare and invaluable literary treasures from some of the world’s oldest and most prestigious institutions with. With over 1,900 items and more than 179,000 pages of content, this collection showcases materials on education, society, and cultural life during the early modern period. Discover texts that expanded knowledge on a range of topics including politics, history, culture and the process of debating and creating social rules and governance.

Early European Books, Collection 24: Debate in Early Modern Europe

Coming in H1 2024

This collection provides pivotal texts primarily in French, spanning the late 15th to the early 18th century. It features seminal classical works, and explores an array of subjects, from political and philosophical discourse to scientific and religious debates. During this era, the accessibility of printed books to all societal levels, not just the privileged, served as a crucial means of spreading knowledge and stimulating debate. These texts critically deconstruct military campaigns, political strategies, and engage in debate on modernizing religion, language, and expanding philosophy.

Early European Books, Collection 25: Education, Society and Cultural Life

This collection comprises a variety of titles in Latin, Greek, and in foreign languages, as well as materials related to education and religion — e.g. religious texts to instruction in classical works, travel guides, dictionaries, phrase books, and religious texts to instruction in foreign languages, as well as hobbies such as hunting, duelling, coin collecting, and winemaking.

Early European Books, Collection 26: Mathematics, Science and Technology

Coming in H1 2024

This collection offers a mixture of British publications about the Empire and titles published in Commonwealth countries (including Australia, New Zealand, India, Canada, and Papua New Guinea). It will support research in key events in colonial history, including the later phase of the Scramble for Africa, the world wars, independence movements, the creation of the Commonwealth, and more. While official publications contain valuable information about colonial administration and ideology, more popular titles, covering the arts, society, and general interests, provide insights into the broader history and culture of former colonies.
This primary source material allows for researchers to identify and interpret the key events and trends in the industry, such as shifts in consumer preferences and behavior, innovations in materials and manufacturing technology, brand strategies, societal impacts of footwear trends, sustainability practices, and retail/distribution trends.

Latinx History

Latín Thought and Culture: The NPR Archive, 1979–1990

Coming in H1 2024

This collection showcases three NPR radio programs available for the first time as digitized audio with transcripts, including the Spanish-language Enfoque Nacional (1979–1988), the English-language Latin File (1988–1990), and the Spanish-language Panorama Hispano. These programs focused on Latinx issues related to politics, sociology, human rights, the arts, and more with interviews of key figures and news reported by a new generation of Latinx journalists at the time.

History Vault: Bexar Archives:

Colonial Archives of Texas during the Spanish and Mexican Periods, 1717–1836

New!

This archive contains the official documents detailing the military, civilian, and political life of the Spanish province of Texas and the Mexican state of Coahuila y Texas. It is considered the most complete and detailed primary source in existence for the study of colonial Texas, documenting virtually all aspects of life in Spanish and Mexican Texas from 1717-1836. The scope of the documentation contained in the Bexar Archives is as vast as the territory whose affairs it recorded.

- This digital archive consists of 250,000 pages of manuscript documentation and more than 4,000 pages of printed material on colonial and regional history.
- Documents cover rich Texas history, including: Early Settlement and Indigenous Relations: Covering Canary Island settlers, religious matters, and interactions with Native Americans.
- Border Disputes and Conflict: Including friction along the Texas-Louisiana border.
- Anglo-American Influence: Including Anglo-American incursions and the arrival of Moses Austin.
- Rebellions and Wars: Coverage of the Mexican revolution, Gueriera-Magueño invasion, Battle of Medina, and the Fredonian Rebellion.
- Road to Independence: Documentation of the Chamí D’Arile incident, Dr. Long’s expedition, the Mexican independent regime, and the declaration of Texas independence in 1836.
History Vault: Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Early Cold War, 1946–1960

As the principal group of military advisers to the president of the United States, the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) is arguably the most important body of military leaders in the world. Records of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Early Cold War contains the formerly classified and secret proposals that, when approved by the president, became the military and foreign policies of the United States. These records offer a behind-the-scenes view of the highest levels of U.S. military decision-making. The reports in this module were written by hundreds of JCS staff members—experts in fields ranging from Chinese defense strategy to U.S. military counterintelligence.

Coming in H1 2024

The 63rd release of the Digital National Security Archive meticulously assembles a curated assortment of documents, providing a detailed exploration into the formative period of U.S.-Russian relations from the inception of the new Russia in December 1991 to January 2000. This comprehensive collection captures pivotal moments in diplomatic history during the presidencies of Boris Yeltsin and Bill Clinton, alongside the first notes of discord emerging under Vladimir Putin. Resulting from years of extensive archival research and numerous targeted Freedom of Information Act requests, this unparalleled compilation features a diverse array of memoranda detailing conversations among Yeltsin, Putin, and Clinton, as well as correspondence between top leaders, high-level memoirs from the Clinton administration, and analyses of Russia’s defense capabilities. Core topics encompass meticulous tracking of negotiations on nuclear arms reductions, non-proliferation efforts, and the withdrawal and dismantlement of nuclear weapons in Ukraine, Belarus, and Kazakhstan. Additionally, the collection offers a comprehensive exploration of events such as the Russian wars in Chechnya, Russian peacekeeping in the former Yugoslavia, and the contentious issue of NATO expansion to Eastern and Central Europe, providing a nuanced understanding of the complex dynamics shaping U.S.-Russian relations during this critical period.

U.S. History

History Vault: Americans for Democratic Action Records

At a conference of prominent American liberals and labor leaders held in New York City on May 9–10, 1941, the Union for Democratic Action (UDA) was formally organized, with James Loeb Jr. as executive secretary, Reinhold Niebuhr as national chairman, and Frank Kingdon as president. The purpose of the new organization was to initiate a two-front fight against fascism, both at home and abroad. After World War II and the November 1946 elections, James Loeb Jr., national director of UDA, joined by Leon Henderson, Wilson W. Wyatt, Hubert H. Humphrey, and others, called for a convention of democratic progressives to meet in Washington, D.C., on January 4, 1947. Two days later, they formed Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) with James Loeb Jr., as national executive secretary. Among the ADA founders were Wilson Wyatt, first national chairman, Leon Henderson, Hubert H. Humphrey, Eleanor Roosevelt, Joseph P. Lash, William Rogers Jr., Joseph L. Rauh Jr., Walter Reuther, James B. Carey, David Dubinsky, Walter White, Reinhold Niebuhr, and Herbert H. Lehman.

History Vault: American Jewish Congress Records: Administrative and Executive Committee, Governing Council, National Conventions, and Executive Director Files

The American Jewish Congress, founded in 1918 under the leadership of Louis Brandeis, Felix Frankfurter, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, is one of the most important organizations dedicated to advocating for the interests of the American Jewish community and defending the civil rights of all Americans. The American Jewish Congress Records span from 1915-2009 and document the American Jewish Congress’s impact on the United States legal system, civil rights and liberties, the fight against discrimination and antisemitism, and support for the State of Israel. The records of the American Jewish Congress are digitized by ProQuest from the holdings of the American Jewish Historical Society. This archive documents Rabbi Stephen S. Wise’s influential contributions to 20th-century American history. It chronicles his impact through biographical details, personal letters, and writings on religious and political matters. His pivotal involvement in events like Zionism and the Versailles Peace Conference is highlighted, along with his founding of key organizations such as the New York Federation of Zionist Societies, leadership in national Zionist federations, chairmanship of the United Palestine Appeal, and his instrumental roles in establishing the American Jewish Congress and organizing the World Jewish Congress.

With topics spanning religious issues, civil rights, international relations, and interactions with notable figures including David Ben-Gurion, Reinhold Niebuhr, Woodrow Wilson, and Franklin Roosevelt, this collection aids researchers in understanding the complexities of 20th-century American history, Jewish identity, and the evolution of social activism.

Workers, Labor, and Race: Records of the Fair Employment Practices Commission, 1941-1946 serves as a valuable resource for scholars exploring the history of civil rights in the workplace and the landscape of civil liberties in America during World War II through the records of the Fair Employment Practices Committee (FEPC). Established in 1941 with the purpose of ensuring equal employment opportunities for minorities in defense industries during the war, the FEPC held jurisdiction over complaints against the federal government, as well as entities and unions engaged in war production.

Collection documents encompass thousands of complaints spanning race, national origin, and religion, resulting in a diverse set of documents such as central records, office correspondence, case documents, reports from FEPC regional offices, meeting minutes, internal studies, memoranda, analyses, transcripts, legal opinions, case files, and individual worker records.

Women’s History

Woman and Social Movements in the U.S. 2024 edition

Coming in H1 2024

Explore the multiplicity of women’s activism in American public life from colonial times to the present. The collection is organized around document projects. Each is a scholarly work that links an interpretive essay to 30 or more related primary documents. Four new document projects will be added in 2024, alongside book reviews, round table discussions, and more. The projects will continue to explore Indigenous women’s history as part of the “Voices of Indigenous Women in North America, American Empire and the Global South, 1820-2020: A Syllabus with Documents.”

SciTech
Premium Collection

New, more browsable SciTech product homepages are now live

Based on extensive feedback from users the SciTech Premium, Technology Collection, and Natural Science Collection now have new, highly visual homepages that make it easier for users to access and evaluate the peer-reviewed journals, secondary sources, videos, and the other publication types they need to complete their work.

Users can easily navigate to other content types too, like trade journals, preprints, and conference papers from the new home pages. In our testing we found lower-level undergraduates often did not know what these terms meant, so definitions were added to explain these publication types.

New Content:

• Over 150 full text scholarly journals. Highlights include:
  - 15 from Cambridge University Press including Twin Research and Human Genetics, Research Directions: QRB Discovery, and Biological Imaging.
  - 11 from Common Ground Research Networks such as The International Journal of Design in Society and The International Journal of the Constructed Environment.
  - Over 400 videos across a broad range of science and engineering subjects. Includes peer-reviewed videos from Springer Nature produced by leading academics and practitioners in computer science to help students learn programming languages or manage large data migrations.
  - 20 trade journals and magazines from publishers including BNP Media and New Scientist.
  - New sources of gray literature including Environmental Impact Statements from the U.S EPA, reports from Fisheries & Oceans Canada, and research publications from WorldFish (non-profit aquaculture research institution).

Anthropology

Contemporary Anthropology: Archaeological Fieldwork and Methods

Archaeology has a history rooted in colonialism and the plunder of antiquities from the global south. This collection will bring together archival and textual material relating to archaeological excavations, methods, and practices done in the late 20th century to present day. It will help students debate ethical practices in archaeology, who owns the past, as well as contemporary field methods and analysis. The core archive featured will be the Cusichaca Archaeological Project (CAP) led by Ann Kendall who did numerous excavations in the Peruvian Andes from 1980s–2010s. Additional topics covered are: 3D Imaging, bioarcheology, maritime archaeology, paleoecology, lithic technology, rock art, colonialism, repatriation, cultural heritage, and more.

LGBT Studies

LGBT Magazine Archive, Volume II

This module expands the LGBT Magazine Archive program with the backfiles of over 20 additional titles. Magazines of this type are among the principal sources of documentation on LGBTQ+ cultures, lives, and events but back issues have not typically been collected by university libraries. Collection 2 will include titles produced for a variety of readerships and LGBTQ+ communities, including, for example, African American, lesbian feminist, bisexual and atheist. Publication types range from lifestyle publications, news titles, and leisure/travel guides, to journals aimed at a professional audience. As well as further U.S. and U.K. publications, Collection 2 extends the international coverage with some titles from mainland Europe. With content from the 1960s through to 2020, this collection will shed light on key topics such as health, lifestyle, politics, social attitudes, law, activism, LGBTQ+ rights, arts and literature.

Queer Past, 2023 Exhibits

Queer Past is a collection of primary source exhibits for students and scholars of queer history and culture. The database uses “queer” in its broadest and most inclusive sense, to embrace topics that are gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender and to include work on sexual and gender formations that are queer but not necessarily LGBT. Each of the document collections in the database includes a critical introductory essay that helps explain the significance of the primary sources in historical terms and in relation to previous scholarship.

The 2023 release will include six additional exhibits. Exhibits will cover queer suffrage, queer student organizing, Black gay men, HIV, cultural production, and more. Detailed exhibit descriptions coming soon.

Global Studies

Contemporary Global Issues in Video

This is a video only collection that updates the themes in the existing Global Issues collections. Encumbering international documentaries on humanitarian and environmental issues, this collection includes films on child trafficking, life in refugee camps to post-conflict support and LGBTQ+ rights, anti-corruption protests and indigenous people’s movements across the globe, and the impact of technology on international security.

Environmental-themed films illustrate the devastating impact of environmental degradation on the planet.

Religion & Philosophy

Twentyfirst Century Religious Thought Library: Volume V, Religion in Video

This addition to the Twentieth Century Religious Thought Library will be a video collection covering various global religions including Christianity, Islam, Judaism, Buddhism, and more. It will discuss how different faith and belief systems intertwine with our daily life, from navigating personal relationships to contemplating our mortality and processing death. Other topics include sacred spaces, worship, art, fashion in religion, and the challenges of practicing faith in the modern world.
Slavic and Eastern European Studies in Video
Coming in H1 2024

Slavic and Eastern European Studies in Video presents titles that delve deep into the historical and cultural dimensions of the region. Videos delve into the pivotal moments that have shaped these countries, exploring the impact of political upheavals, wars, and geopolitical shifts. Alongside this historical exploration, the collection celebrates the vibrant cultural heritage, spotlighting folk traditions, music, art, dance, and religious practices that form the heart of these societies.

Beyond its historical focus, the collection offers a contemporary perspective. Videos within it delve into current socio-political issues, economic challenges, and cultural transformations, offering valuable insights into the region’s present state.

Political Science & Public Policy
Supreme Court Insight: 1897–1932
The comprehensive collection offers researchers a single location for discovery of Supreme Court dockets, complete opinions, joint appendices and briefs, including those filed by amicus curiae. This user-friendly interface makes it possible to narrow searches within a specific case on a dynamic page. These case compilation pages are organized to maximize understanding of judicial process and to help users quickly identify content in Petition, Merit, and Resolution stages. The original module covers 1975–2016, with updates available separately. Historic modules include 1933–1974 and 1897–1932.

Trends & Policy: U.S. Environment
This collection explores how human interaction with the environment is changed by government policies. It merges content from a variety of sources and presents them in a unique interface designed to connect various environmental policies of the United States to their trending results. Curated Topic Pages cover such areas as the Clean Air Act, the Endangered Species Act of 1973, fracking and the production of oil and gas, Native Americans, natural resources, pollution, health, and more.

Trends & Policy: U.S. Criminal Justice
This collection merges content from a variety of sources and presents them in a unique interface designed to connect various criminal justice policies of the United States to their trending results. Curated Topic Pages cover such areas as the Clean Air Act, the Endangered Species Act of 1973, fracking and the production of oil and gas, Native Americans, natural resources, pollution, health, and more.

ProQuest Executive Branch Documents Great Series and Reports
New!
ProQuest Executive Branch Documents (EBD) Great Series and Reports is a curated collection of executive branch documents that focuses on complete series and monographs relevant to issues of today and their historic context. Parts are released annually covering the years 1953-present and consists of approximately 25,000 documents, including complete runs of series and selected monographs from a variety of agencies. Accessible on ProQuest Congressional, this collection builds upon Executive Branch Documents 1-6, which covers 1789-1952. Entitled users can search all executive branch content together and link back to pre-1953 documents from the later documents in a series. Entitled users can also search legislative content related to reports required by Congress with the reports themselves, and link from the executive branch document record to the related Public Law text, the legislative history on Legislative Insight and the regulatory history on Regulatory Insight. EBD Great Series and Reports facilitates teaching and learning about government policies, the implementation of laws, and changes in executive branch organization over time.

• Part 1 launched in 2023 with 6,300 series documents and 30 monographs with the remainder of the content to be added on an ongoing basis in 2024.
• Part 2 will launch in December 2024.

Supreme Court Insight Certiorari Denied, Part 3, 1954–1974
Each year, approximately 7,000-8,000 new cases are filed in the Supreme Court, but the Court agrees to hear only about 80 of those cases. The paid cases for which certiorari is denied — the cases not heard — are the cases included in our Certiori Denied collection. This is the third module in our Certiori Denied program. Sometimes the Court will continue to deny petitions on the same topic over a period of time before a case is finally accepted. Research on Certiori Denied cases might examine the petition language, topics, court of origin, role of certain organizations, attorneys, and Justices, as well as allow users with access to our heard case content to compare the denied cases to similar cases which were accepted. Denied case content includes dockets and petition stage briefs, including amicus briefs.

Web of Science APIs seamlessly integrate high quality publication and citation data into your internal systems, including Current Research Information Systems (CRIS) and Faculty Activity Reporting (FAR) systems. The newest API—the Researcher API—helps university research managers integrate rich Web of Science Researcher Profile data into institutional portals.
ProQuest Platform enhancements support users with features on search results pages

ProQuest is continuing to optimize the ProQuest Platform based on customer and user feedback. Recent enhancements are available which offer new options for assessing and interacting with search results.

- Use Tools have been added to individual records in search results, offering users options to work directly within each search result item. As a user moves through the results list, individual items can be cited, emailed or saved to My Research. This change offers users more flexibility with how users interact with search results, offering options for individual result Use Tools, or Use Tools that apply to multiple items within the search results list.

- A “Quick Look” option is available on search results allowing users to quickly move item-by-item through the results list to get key information. Users see an overview of each item, including abstract and indexing if available and link to full text if available. This feature helps users gain a fast picture of how useful and relevant search results items are to their research question without needing to click into every result item.

- The search field present on results pages can now be hidden from view by the user if they desire, allowing for more focus on the results list.

More detail, including screenshots, can be found on the Support Center.

Google Single-Sign-On (SSO)

Users accessing ProQuest Platform through their academic institution can now seamlessly authenticate into ProQuest Platform using their institutional Google Account credentials. Google Single-Sign-On is an authentication option for products available on the ProQuest platform and facilitates easy access to the library’s ProQuest databases.

Students, faculty, and staff have one fewer password to remember, and librarians and electronic resource administrators can use the Google Account capabilities to configure and manage product access for their users. Once logged-in, users can easily share and save articles using Google Workspace for Education tools like Google Docs.

Google SSO is just the latest in a series of platform enhancements by ProQuest in recent years to facilitate deeper integration with student and faculty workflows.

To learn more about configuring Google Account Single-Sign-On for your ProQuest solutions, visit the Support Center article.

These enhancements support ProQuest users with insights and key metrics at their point need.

ProQuest Historical Newspapers

Historical International Newspapers: London Evening Standard (1827-Current)

A London-based paper, with national and commonwealth influence, focused on the social narrative of and for the man on the street, complementing the raw, first-impression coverage of international events from correspondents placed all over Europe, America and the Commonwealth, and national political developments well before the national papers hit the streets the following day.

Historical Black Newspapers: Kansas City Call (1919-2010)

This Black weekly newspaper was founded in 1919 to provide leadership for the Black community. It quickly became one of the most successful Black newspapers in the U.S. covering civil rights issues and fighting segregation, discrimination, and other important issues of the African American community. The paper has a strong history of encouraging African Americans to register and vote and of covering many key Black issues including school segregation and urban development. The Kansas City Call fought to have Blacks serve on Kansas City juries and called for a reduction of violence within Black communities. It was the first African American newspaper to become an International News Service member in 1948 when it subscribed to one of the major wire services.

Historical Newspapers: St. Louis American (1928-2010)

The St. Louis American stands as a steadfast witness to the community, serving and reporting on the African American experience since its beginning in March 1928. This enduring weekly founded by Nathan B. Young, the first Black appointed municipal judge in St. Louis, and several prominent African American businessmen, has played a pivotal role in chronicling and championing African Americans in St. Louis. From its modest beginnings as an eight-page tabloid with a circulation of just over 2,000, the St. Louis American has evolved into the single largest weekly newspaper in Missouri. The newspaper has been a crucial voice in highlighting St. Louis’s historical significance for African Americans, from its key location on the Underground Railroad in the early to mid-19th century, to the establishment of a vibrant Black community, and serving as an active hub for civil rights in the 20th century. The inaugural issue in 1928 set the tone for the newspaper’s commitment to social justice, featuring a headline on the “Pullman Porters May Strike,” which covered the groundbreaking efforts of the first Black labor union. In 1930, the “Buy Where You Can Work Campaign” further solidified the newspaper’s legacy by advocating for the civil rights. The St. Louis American remains a trusted source of news tailored to the Black community reporting not only on social issues, but also and on national and regional news, religion, sports, and entertainment.

Historical Newspapers: ABC (Spain) (1903-2010)

Coming in H1 2024

ABC is a prominent Spanish-language tabloid daily newspaper published in Madrid. ABC’s origins trace back to 1903 when it was founded as a weekly publication by the esteemed journalist Torcuato Luca de Tena y Alvarez-Ossorio. The newspaper transitioned into a daily format in 1905 and subsequently expanded its reach with the introduction of a Seville edition after 1929. Throughout its long history, ABC has garnered a reputation for its exceptional literary standards, attracting many eminent writers and intellectuals who have contributed to its journalism. ABC has maintained a global perspective, boasting a dedicated foreign bureau that provides extensive coverage of international news. ABC’s deep commitment to reporting on the arts and Spanish culture further cements its status as a vital source of information and insight for both local and global audiences.

Stretching back to 1964 and representing the heyday of Fleet Street feature publishing, creative advertising and photography, this archive is a rich source of historical and cultural journalistic content. Published as part of The Observer, The Observer Magazine features everything from interviews with A-list stars to moving and inspirational personal stories and social issues. Leading columnists of the day offer words of wit and wisdom, interspersed with stunning photo-reportage from around the world. This collection pairs well with the Historical International Newspapers: The Guardian and The Observer.

Historical U.S. Standalone Newspapers: Barron’s Magazine (1921–2010)

Founded by Clarence Barron a successful Boston journalist and subsequent owner of Dow Jones & Company, Barron’s has been a leading U.S. weekly since 1921. Barron, considered the founder of modern financial journalism, created his magazine after his aggressive and in-depth coverage of Charles Ponzi which led to the schemer’s unraveling and conviction. His intense approach to find the financial truth paved the way for closer scrutiny of corporate financial information and thus made his magazine required reading for investors and financiers. Barron’s reports financial news, in-depth analysis and commentary on stocks and investments. It reflects on how markets moved across the world the previous week and provides outlook and reports on the week ahead.

Historical Newspapers: U.S. Collection

New!

Historical Newspapers: U.S. Collection explores America’s events and stories—past and present—through a collection of over 130 exclusive local newspaper titles across 34 states and growing. Titles span the first historical issue to the most recent, with the ability to experience each issue as it was originally printed, page by page, in crisp detail for an immersive research experience. News happens everywhere. This collection delivers first-hand accounts of news where and when it happened on the ground, with state, local and community news that was not covered in national and international dailies. Additionally, unique local perspectives and interpretations of national and global events provide an alternate lens through which to study key events and social issues of the past and present.

TDM Studio

Pair news collections with a text and data mining solution that provides researchers with full rights clearance for their data and language processing needs. Interrogate historical and current news to answer questions in Business, Social Sciences, and Political Sciences.

Academic Video Online

A comprehensive video subscription, with almost 80,000* titles. The latest content additions include content from Sony Pictures Classics, FILM PLATFORM, PBS, BBC, Bloomberg Media Distribution, Quest TV, Grasshopper Film, Collective Eye Films, Cheng Cheng Films, and more.

New!

Academic Video Online launched a new learning tool, Video Interaction Functionality. This enables faculty to embed pedagogical tools throughout streaming videos, including discussion prompts, multiple choice and free form questions, polling, and more. Video interactions can be created by faculty or edited from interactions already available and will deliver meaningful ways to leverage streaming video for collaboration, reflection, and assessment of student knowledge and retention of course lessons and concepts. Faculty will also have access to real-time analytics, to see student responses and adapt their teaching based on student comprehension to facilitate improved learning outcomes.

In a recent Web of Science customer survey, the majority of respondents agreed that dissertations and theses are an essential part of understanding the research landscape and add value to the Web of Science by providing users simultaneous access to unpublished and published multidisciplinary scholarship. In response, Clarivate has integrated ProQuest™ Dissertations & Theses metadata and abstracts into the Web of Science.

Introducing ProQuest Dissertations & Theses Citation

This integration between ProQuest Dissertations and Theses and the Web of Science enables researchers to seamlessly uncover early career, post-graduate research in the form of more than 5.7 million dissertations and theses from over 4,100 institutions in more than 60 countries, alongside journal articles, conference proceedings, research data, books, preprints and patents.

Help your researchers maximize the results of limited research time by capturing a wider range of scholarly outputs in a single search.

Improve literature reviews: Execute more comprehensive literature reviews by including unpublished scholarship and more diverse perspectives.

Find related research faster: Quickly explore the research foundation of dissertations and theses on novel and niche topics with indexed cited references.

Discover emerging trends: Identify emerging areas of research and the post-graduate programs that are engaged in this research.

Showcase your achievement to peers and evaluators: Claim your dissertation or thesis in your Web of Science Researcher Profile to make your work more visible to researchers and leaders at 9,000 organizations around the world using Web of Science.

Integrating solutions to empower researchers

ProQuest Dissertations & Theses Citation Index™ on the Web of Science platform represents a significant leap forward in facilitating research excellence. By bridging the gap between published and unpublished works, this collaboration empowers researchers and graduate students to achieve their research goals more efficiently and effectively.

For joint subscribers of the Web of Science and ProQuest Dissertations & Theses Global, direct full-text linking allows researchers to delve into more than three million full-text documents on the ProQuest Platform without interruption, eliminating barriers and facilitating a deeper exploration of relevant research.
